Concerning Mike de Pike
Kresge and Jefferson
Who Got the Cash?
Lindbergh's Next Flight

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

A CHICAGO resort, described as a "hotel," is thoroughly equipped with a protecting iron door. It proved that "Mike de Pike" belongs properly in the penitentiary, instead of trying to "muscle in on" politics in Chicago. "Mike de Pike" was natural, for that which includes bootlegging, gambling and vice, takes in, all told, [illegible] a year.

* * *

The police know Chicago's leading murderers, bootleggers, hi-jackers, gunmen, gangsters, keepers, vice resort proprietors intimately. Why not lock them up when they are identified, and keep them up?

* * *

Coal miners are locked up because they belong to the U. M. W., and in California an editor, accused of no crime except unpopular political opinions not shared by the majority, was sent to prison many years.

* * *

A CHICAGO police commissioner recently said that more than half the police were engaged in bootlegging. That perhaps accounts for liberty enjoyed by recognized gangsters and murderers. There should be some way to punish organized crime as dangerous for officials as it is for the public.

* * *

S. S. KRESGE of Detroit, head of the thousand ten-cent chain stores, gives $500,000 to a prohibition fund. There are various opinions on the way to promote temperance. Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence, would have given the money to establish breweries and vineyards for production of light wine and beer. He believed they would replace whisky, which, he said, killed half the population in his day and ruined their families. It wasn't as bad as bootleg whisky and killed slowly, if surely.

* * *

DOCUMENTS from the archives of the Mexican government show that $3,000,000 was set aside for three members of the United States Senate, whose names, of course, are not published, although they appear in the Mexican documents. An investigation would doubtless show how much of these appropriations went to middlemen, how much was kept by those that ordered disbursements and perhaps used confidential funds to hide their own steals.

* * *

LINDBERGH'S next long flight will be from Washington, D. C., to Mexico City, on the invitation of President Calles of Mexico. He will fly in the same machine that took him across the Atlantic. The engine in the "Spirit of St. Louis," which has carried Lindbergh over thousands of miles in the United States since his return from abroad, has not been overhauled since it started for Paris, although carefully inspected after each flight.

* * *

THE United States government ought to enlist the services of Lindbergh to instruct American fliers and enlighten those responsible for our air defense. If another war ever comes, it will seem very extraordinary to future historians, writing of American cities bombed and gassed, that the richest cities in the world should have gone along without adequate air defense. Not one of our cities is protected today by anything but distance. Our defense guns and battleships are useless, anti-aircraft guns absolutely useless. We spend $600,000,000 a year for "defense" and have none.

* * *

THE president recommends a ten-year plan for Mississippi Valley flood prevention involving $296,100,000. Another $25,000,000 would be spent each year and $50,000,000 a year thereafter. Why not spend every year as much as can be spent wisely to do the work, rather than risk, in the next ten years, another flood that will cause destruction more than the total appropriation. Secretary Mellon could borrow the money for 3 per cent. He couldn't take it out of the surplus. But it is important, floods don't wait.

* * *

WARDEN LAWES of Sing Sing prison is inundated with requests to witness the killing of Ruth Snyder in the electric chair. It might facilitate the work to finger-print all that make requests. They may, however, be disappointed. New York's governor takes pride in his state and his record will not be increased by killing a helpless woman, however depraved, in an electric chair, the top of her head shaved, the calf of her leg exposed to the deadly electrodes. Let him stop killing her.

The state refrains from executing criminals, however unworthy, because of the sacredness of their calling. It must also respect the sacredness of motherhood, however unworthy the individual.

MRS. MEDILL McCORMICK, widow of the late senator from Illinois, will go to Washington as congressional delegate from her state. A meeting for the state and Congressional district Chicago newspapers are supporting Mrs. McCormick, so is "Big Bill" Thompson and Vice President Dawes. All this would interest the late Mark Hanna, Mrs. McCormick's father, if he could know about it.

MARION COUNTY COMMISSIONER DIES AT HOME

John N. Rexroth, 53, Victim of Diabetes at Rural Residence

IN OFFICE ONE YEAR

Masonic Lodge To Have Charge of Funeral Services Tuesday Afternoon

John N. Rexroth, member of the board of commissioners of Marion County, died at his home on the Iberia pk, about six miles northeast of Marion, at 8:40 last night, following an illness caused by diabetes and complications.

He had been confined to his home since two weeks ago, when his last illness was brought on by a large carbuncle which formed on his neck. At the outset his affliction was not regarded as alarming and his recovery was hoped for until several days ago, when his condition took an unfavorable turn. Hope for his recovery was practically abandoned Thursday.

Mr. Rexroth, who was one of the county's best known farmers, was elected county commissioner in November, 1926 and took office on Jan. 1, 1927, serving less than a year of his four-year term.

53 Years of Age

He was past 53 years of age, having been born in Oxford, Ind., on April 23, 1874. He was a resident of Marion County during the greater part of his life, his parents locating here during his boyhood. His parents, both of whom are dead, were Mr. and Mrs. David Rexroth.

Mr. Rexroth was married on Dec. 25, 1907 to Miss Elnora Walters, who died several years later and on Jan. 21, 1917 he was united in marriage with Miss Cora B. Virden.

Surviving are his widow, three sisters, Mrs. Martha B. Herd, Miss Mary L. Rexroth and Miss Elizabeth L. Rexroth and his step-mother, Mrs. Jane Rexroth.

Funeral Services

Funeral services will be conducted at the Rexroth home at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and at Epworth M. E. Church at 2 o'clock, by the pastor, Dr. B. L. George. The rites will be under auspices of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M. with Marion Commandery, No. 36, Knights Templar, acting as escort. Burial will take place at Marion Cemetery.

Six representatives of county officers are to serve as pallbearers. They are

SELECTION OF NEW COMMISSIONER SET

Appointment Will Be Made Next Week by Three County Officers

Appointment of the successor to John N. Rexroth, member of the board of county commissioners who died last night, will probably be made next week, it was indicated at the courthouse today. Under provisions of the law, the appointment will be made by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, County Recorder Charles E. Smith and Probate Judge L. B. McNeal.

Two of these officials, Thomas and McNeal, are Republicans, so it is regarded as certain that the vacancy will be filled by a representative of their party. Mr. Rexroth was a Republican, as are the two other members of the board, O. W. Kinnamon and W. J. King.

It is not expected that any action toward filling the vacancy will be taken until after Tuesday, the day of Mr. Rexroths funeral

PEACE IN SIGHT

Threats of War Between Poland and Lithuania Dissipated

Geneva, Dec. 10—Threats of war between Poland and Lithuania over the status of Vilna were completely dissipated this morning during a short secret session of the League of Nations Council, attended by Marshal Pilsudski, premier of Poland, and Premier Valdemaras of Lithuania.

No communique was issued after the meeting but it was learned that the two premiers agreed to a resumption of neighborly diplomatic relations.

Premier Pilsudski is leaving for Warsaw this afternoon, entrusting to Foreign Minister Zaleski the task of working out the details of the agreement.

FORMER RAYMOND BANK CASHIER HELD ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLING BRANCH FUNDS

BEACH, WIDOW GET 10 YEARS; JURORS FLAYED

Judge Asserts Crime, Beyond Question, Was Murder in First Degree

FINE NOT ASSESSED

Appeal Will Be File'd Later, Defense Counsel Decares

Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 10—Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and her alleged paramour, Willis Beach, white-haired poultry farmer, today were sentenced to 10 years at hard labor for the killing of the woman's aged husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl. They were convicted by a jury last Thursday of "voluntary manslaughter," which under the New Jersey law involves a maximum sentence of 10 years imprisonment, or $1,000 fine, or both. There is no minimum set.

"Why the jury brought in that verdict of voluntary manslaughter I do not know. This crime was, beyond question, murder in the first degree."

This statement was made from the bench by Justice Campbell.

Contrary to previous announcements, Robert McCarter, council for Mrs. Lilliendahl, did not make a motion for a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence. He told the court that his evidence was not yet completed, and that therefore he would wait. He can make the application any time within six months. It had been intimated by defense counsel that they had obtained a confession from two negroes. It has been the defense contention throughout that the aged doctor was slain by negroes, who also attacked Mrs. Lilliendahl.

To Make Plea Later

"If your honor please," said McCarter, "after the jury returned a verdict in this case we asked for time, before imposition of sentence, to investigate certain material information which had come to our attention. We have not to date been able to crystalize that information in such a form to be able to present it to your honor."

McCarter then explained that he would make a plea for a new trial later. Edison Hedges, counsel for Beach, pleaded for a light sentence, stating that what "would be light punishment for many another man would be very heavy punishment indeed for

FLAPPER WIDOW IN CELL DURING RITES

Velma West Shows No Desire To Attend Funeral of Husband

Palmesville, Dec. 10—While Thomas Edward West, 26, is being laid to rest at Perry, Ohio, this afternoon, Velma West, his 21-year-old "flapper widow," who has confessed that she beat him to death with a claw hammer last Tuesday night, will remain in solitary confinement in the County Jail here, with her cigarets and her "modern romance" magazines.

No desire has been evidenced by the young woman to attend the funeral or to see the body of the man with whom she eloped only a year ago, according to county authorities.

HOPE OF RESCUING LAKE CREWS RISES

Moderating of Weather Proves Aid: Coast Guards Set Out

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Dec. 10—Moderation in the weather today increased hope of rescuing the crews of two wrecked lake steamers and probable that of a third, totaling 80 men.

As a result of calm winds and rising temperatures, Capt. A. F. Glaza and six members of the Eagle Harbor Coast Guard left their station at daybreak in a surf boat in an attempt to rescue the 22 men on the steamer Altadoc, which has been grounded at Keweenaw Point in Lake Superior for 48 hours.

Baffled by high winds and turbulent waters all yesterday, tugs failed to reach the freighter Agawa, with its crew of 22, wrecked off Advance Point, near Manitoulin Island, in Lake Huron. Efforts to make a rescue were to be resumed today under more favorable conditions.

MURDEROUS WORDS

Two Million Sent Out on Lilliendahl Murder Trial

Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 10—The Western Union Telegraph Co. announces that a total of 1,487,528 words on the Lilliendahl murder trial were filed from the special courthouse office alone. About 600,000 more words on the trial were sent from the Atlantic City office.

RELIEF FROM COLD ARRIVES ON SCHEDULE

Forecast Indicates Moderate Temperatures Will Prevail Over Week-End

Relief from the cold wave of the last few days, promised for Marion and vicinity in yesterday's official weather forecast, arrived according to schedule.

Gradual rise in the temperature started late yesterday afternoon and last night 17 degrees above zero was the lowest point registered by the official government thermometer here. This was 13 degrees higher than the record for Thursday night, which was the coldest reported since winter weather staged its first appearance.

Charity Work

Moderation of the temperature brought especially welcome relief to homes of the poor in the city, where shortage of fuel, food and other supplies caused considerable suffering.

Local charity and relief agencies were kept busy during the near-zero spell supplying the needs of these families.

Today's weather forecast indicated that moderate temperature will continue to prevail. The prediction for Ohio is "Increasing cloudiness, probably rain or snow in east and south portions tonight and Sunday."

A year ago yesterday the mercury registered 32 at its highest point and 29 at its lowest.

FIVE-CENT ARGUMENT CAUSES MAN'S DEATH

Fatal Shooting Affray Follows Words in Columbus Poolroom

Columbus, Dec. 10—An argument over a five-cent pool debt caused the shooting affray in which James Katsaros, poolroom proprietor, lost his life last night, according to a statement from police here today.

Walter Williams, negro, and James Chitanpos, also part owner of the poolroom, suffered minor wounds during the gunplay. Police say Williams shot Katsaros but are unable to explain who shot him as both of the other men claim they were unarmed.

LINDBERGH IS GIVEN MEDAL BY CONGRESS

Famous Flier Given Acclaim of House of Representatives

Washington, Dec. 10—Five minutes after Col. Lindbergh had received the acclaim of the House of Representatives and the almost unprecedented floor privileges thereof, that body unanimously adopted a resolution awarding the transatlantic flier the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Representative Cochran, Democrat, of Missouri, advanced the resolution.

Prior to action on the bill, Speaker Longworth introduced Lindbergh to the House as "America's most attractive citizen." He received an ovation and then took a place on the speaker's rostrum and spent 20 minutes shaking hands with the members.

SYNAGOGUES DESTROYED BY RIOTING STUDENTS

Berlin, Dec. 10—Seventeen synagogues were destroyed, 56 volumes of rabbinical scriptures were stolen and damage totaling $1,500,000 was done by the riotous Roumanian students during anti-Jewish hegroms at Grosswardein and Klausenburg, Roumania, according to the first authentic reports reaching here today.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO CONVENTION BEING PLANNED

Ohio Republicans Expected To Send Large Delegation to Kansas City

MARION MAN IN CHARGE

Fred W. Warner, State Chairman, Holds Conference with Rail Representative

Plans for Ohio's part in the Republican national convention, which will open in Kansas City on June 12, are already under way. This was indicated here yesterday when C. H. Lorenz of Toledo, division passenger agent of the Wabash Railway Co., came to Marion for a conference with Fred W. Warner, state Republican chairman, regarding preliminary arrangements for running a special train to carry Ohio's delegation to the convention city.

Although definite details were not worked out, Warner said following his meeting with Lorenz that the special train is virtually certain to be scheduled and that it will carry one of the largest state delegations attending the convention. Ohio's showing is certain to be of exceptional proportions because of the presidential candidacy of Frank B. Willis, Warner stated. The state chairman predicted that the Ohio delegation will be solid for Willis and will make a strenuous effort to carry him through to victory.

Proposed Route

The route of the special train, as tentatively outlined by Lorenz yesterday, will be over the Big Four railway from Cleveland to St. Louis, where it is to be transferred to the Wabash for the trip to Kansas City. Stops will be made at Columbus and several other important points in Ohio to pick up delegates and others planning to attend the convention.

Circumstances of interest locally are connected with appointment of Lorenz to the position which he now holds with the Wabash railway, it was learned during his visit here yesterday. He succeeded Philip Emerson Dombaugh, former Marion man, as division passenger agent of the Wabash following Dombaugh's death about 10 years ago, being appointed to fill the vacancy by Fred Tristram, another former Marion resident who held a high official position with the company.

SAY HOOVER TO HAVE 300 VOTES AT START

Southern Delegates' Support Believed Already Assured Secretary

Washington, Dec. 10—The enthusiastic supporters of Herbert Hoover were voicing private claims today that he will go into the Republican national convention at Kansas City next June with a minimum of 300 votes on the first ballot. It will take 545 to nominate, as there will be 1089 delegates in the convention.

They base their claims on public promises that have come to them since President Coolidge and Charles Evans Hughes have eliminated themselves from the 1928 picture. The past week saw the Republican National Committee meet in Washington and from these political managers, the Hoover lieutenants claim to have obtained a cross-country view into Republican thought that one prominent Hoover backer described as "very reassuring."

The Hoover people believe they will get a majority of the southern delegates at the outset. One southern committeeman, R. B. Creager of Texas is already in the open with his promise of support. Southern Republicans have a habit of going with the administration because many of them are federal office-holders and all of them are dependent upon the administration at Washington for patronage.

"WE'S" LAST FLIGHT

Lindy's Plane To Be Put in Smithsonian Institution

Washington, Dec. 10—The non-stop flight between Washington and Mexico City which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will start within the next 10 days will be the last for "The Spirit of St. Louis," the ship in which Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris.

Upon the completion of this jaunt it is planned to put the famous ship in the Smithsonian Institute.

The start will be made from Bolling Field. Although the trip is "unofficial," the State Department is cooperating with the transatlantic flier in arranging the details.

POLAR BEAR MEMBERS RENEG ON RIVER BATH

Mingo Junction, Dec. 10—Six of the eight members of the "Polar Bear Club," an organization which requires a daily dip in the Ohio River, have reneged during the frigid temperatures of the last two days. Two members were still in good standing today, however. They are F. A. Ruggeberg and William Whitaker.

Here's First Lady of Land In Fall Sports Costume

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE

FIRST in fashions as she is first in everything else, our first lady of the land appears for sports in an extremely apropos costume. Resisting the cold in an incomparably soft, deep seal coat, she wears a gay but conservative scarf at the neck. Nestling snugly on her left shoulder, is a large La France rose, competing with her smile for brightness. Her hat is an inimitable creation of French felt, banded with satin ribbon ending in a bow below the crown, and brightened with a marcasite ornament. The richness of the felt matches in depth and quality the soft sheen of the seal.

Mt. Gilead Man is Elected President of Masters And Wardens' Association Here

Dr. C. Jenson Honored at Annual Meeting of Fifteeth Masonic District; Considered One of Most Important Sessions in Years

Dr. C. Jenson of Mt. Gilead was elected president of the Masters and Wardens' Association of the fifteenth Masonic district of Ohio at the annual meeting of the organization held here yesterday afternoon and night. Approximately 300 Masons, including 110 masters, past masters and wardens representing lodges outside the city of Marion, attended the meeting, which was designated as one of the largest and most important Masonic gatherings held here in recent years.

The program included three sessions, one in the afternoon and one at 7 o'clock at night for past masters and wardens and the closing session, opening at 8 o'clock, for all members of the order.

Other Officers

Election of officers took place at the annual business session of the association, held at 7 o'clock. Other officers chosen, in addition to Dr. Jenson, were John E. West, Bellefontaine, vice president; E. C. Webber, West Mansfield, treasurer, and Frank W. Little, Marion, secretary. They will serve during the ensuing year.

At the business session it was decided to hold three meetings of the association during the coming year. In the past the annual meeting in December has been the only one scheduled. The program for 1928 will include a meeting in the spring at Mt. Gilead, one in the fall at Bellefontaine and the annual assemblage in December at Marysville.

The fifteenth Masonic district includes Marion, Morrow, Union and Logan Counties and all of the 17 lodges in this territory were represented at yesterday's meeting, held at the local Masonic Temple.

Degree Conferred

The program opened at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon with a session at which the past master degree was conferred. This ceremony was held to comply with provisions of the grand lodge laws which require all lodge masters-elect to receive the past master degree before taking office. The degree was conferred under direction of Asa Queen, district lecturer, on the following masters-elect: C. W. Griffith, Prospect, C. O. Shoup, Richwood; T. C. Grossman, Caledonia and Frank Squires, Chesterville.

Masters-elect of the 13 other lodges in the district had already received the degree and consequently were not re-

LISLE C. CROSS IN COUNTY JAIL AT MARYSVILLE

Said To Have Admitted Shortages in Accounts Totaling Nearly $20,000

AWAITS ARRAIGNMENT

Institution Figuring in Case Recently Discontinued as Branch of Union Bank

(Special to The Star)

Marysville, Dec. 10—Lisle Cross, former cashier of the Raymond Deposit Bank, of Raymond, a branch institution of the Union Bank of Marysville until its discontinuance one week ago, was held in the county jail here today awaiting preliminary hearing on charges of embezzlement.

The shortage, which Cross is said to have admitted to Union Bank officials, is reported to be near $20,000. Exact figures in the case were unavailable today, while bank officials were continuing their investigation of records.

Common Pleas Judge Porter of Union County was to hear Lisle's plea to the charges at the preliminary hearing this afternoon. The affidavit for arrest was filed by Cashier B. H. Hanner of the Union Bank here.

Discontinue Branch

The Raymond Deposit Bank has been operated under the supervision of the Union Bank for several years. Altering the former plan of business, the local institution discontinued the Raymond branch and funds and records were transported to Union Bank one week ago. Officials are said to have received their first knowledge of the alleged irregularities in the bank's management at that time.

The accused man has admitted, according to the sheriff, that he has been embezzling money from the bank for the last two years. Cross owned several race horses last summer and some of the money is believed to have been spent in this way officials intimated. He has a wife and four children.

Officials of the bank say the losses are covered by a bonding house and that depositors and stockholders will lose nothing.

Second Misfortune

State examiners have not as yet been brought into the case and thus far the investigation has been conducted solely by Union Bank officials. Little was known locally as to the plans for procedure in the case.

Cross's arrest this morning was the second serious misfortune he has experienced within 72 hours. On Thursday night, the residence which he occupied at Raymond was destroyed by fire. A defective flue was believed to have caused the fire, which was discovered by Mrs. Cross. The Marysville fire department was called when the Raymond schoolbuilding and several nearby residences were threatened. E. C. Jackson, owner of the dwelling, reported that the loss was partly covered by insurance.

CHARGES BANDIED OVER NEW TAX BILL

Political Trickery Cited by Each Faction as Debate Is Started

Washington, Dec. 10—Charges and counter-charges of political trickery were bandied about in the House today as debate on the new tax-reduction bill swung past the preliminary stage.

Democratic spokesmen declared that the new $232,000,000 tax cut bill was framed to catch the favor of the wealthy. Republican leaders asserted that their political forces were ready to bankrupt the treasury in order to win the taxpayer's favor in the 1928 presidential campaign.

On one point Representative Green, Republican of Iowa, chairman of the ways and means committee, and Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas, minority leader, fully agreed. The tax bill, completely revising the old law, has been simplified for the tax-payer's benefit and saving in attorneys' fees.

Standing squarely on the proposition that the committee's bill proposes the limit in safe tax reduction, Green intimated that tax reduction bills may be few and far between in future years.

Garner, announced his intention to carry on the fight for a greater tax cut on the theory that the Republicans are bobbing down the bill now so that a new tax reduction measure can be proposed on eve of another election.

FAMOUS PILOT DEAD

Le Bourget, France, Dec. 10—Pierre Corbu, famous French pilot, was killed shortly before noon today while trying out a new plane.

When 900 feet in the air Corbu's plane split in two and crashed to the ground. Corbu and his mechanic, La Cleic, were killed instantly.

Corbu, with Leon Givon, made an unsuccessful attempt to fly from Paris to New York last summer in the giant Farman biplane, the "Bluebird," which was forced to turn back one hour after the takeoff because of fog.

REPORT CHILD THROWN INTO CUYAHOGA RIVER

Cleveland, Dec. 10—Police and coast guards today were searching for the body of a boy about six years of age, reported to have been thrown over the railing of a viaduct into the Cuyahoga River.

A street car crew told police they saw three men in a sedan throw what appeared to be the body of a boy into the stream. The car men succeeded in obtaining the first five numbers of the auto license plate and police were checking in an attempt to locate the owner of the machine.

CHURCH CANTATA DETAILS COMPLETED

Epworth M. E. Church Choir To Present Program Sunday Night, Dec. 18

A detailed program of the cantata, "The Prince of Peace," by Arthur Miller, to be presented Sunday night, Dec. 18, at Epworth M. E. Church by the church choir, was announced today by the choir director, W. E. Orcutt. The selection is divided into three parts, the prophecy, the Magii, and the shepherds but carries a connected theme.

Solo numbers will be sung by members of the church quartet, Miss Florence Shaw Rutherford, soprano, Mrs. Leila Connor Moore, contralto; W. W. Koppe, tenor, and W. E. Orcutt, bass. Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, church organist, will play the instrumental accompaniment.

The cantata will open with an introductory number by the chorus choir "The People That Walked in Darkness" and will be followed by a solo, "But Thou, Bethlehem," by Mrs. Moore. Notice To Employes Of Marion Industrial Plants

Under date of October 5, 1927, a letter was addressed to the Industrial Commission of Ohio as follows:

"To ascertain the intent of the law in regard to employes of various companies in Marion being compelled to go to designated physicians in Industrial accident cases. Also the attitude of the Commission towards the employers who refuse to fill out blanks for injured employes that go to other than their designated physicians."

Their answer under date of October 14, 1927, is as follows:

"There is nothing in the Workman's Compensation law which compels an injured employe to go only to physicians designated by the employer for treatment."

"As to your second inquiry we would advise we find nothing in the law that would require an employer to fill out blanks for injured employes, but employers are, by section 1465-99, of the General Code of Ohio, required to report in writing to the Industrial Commission of Ohio every accident resulting in injury within a week after its occurrence. The entire section referred to reads as follows:

"Every employer of the state shall keep a record of all injuries, fatal or otherwise, received by his employes in the course of their employment. Within a week after the occurrence of an accident resulting in personal injury, a report thereof shall be made in writing to the state liability board of awards upon blank to be procured from the board for that purpose. Such report shall contain the name and nature of the business of the employer, the location of his establishment or place of work, the name, address and occupation of the injured employe and shall state the time, the nature and cause of injury and such other information as may be required by the board. "Any employer who refuses or neglects to make any report required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) for such offense."

This is being published by this Society to inform employes of their rights in the matter of the choosing the physician of their choice in injury cases.

JURY FINDS MAN NOT GUILTY OF CHARGE

John E. Jones, Mt. Vernon-av, Accused of Intoxication, Is Released

The third jury to set on a case in municipal court this year, after 15 minutes deliberation last night, found John E. Jones, Mt. Vernon-av, not guilty of a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Jones was arrested early Thursday morning on N. State st after he had driven his machine into the trench being dug by the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. for a new track. He entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Martin in municipal court later in the day and his hearing was set for yesterday.

Four hours was consumed and 16 witnesses examined during the hearing. Twelve witnesses were introduced by Ben T. Want and Edward King, attorneys for Jones.

The prosecution introduced four witnesses including Patrolman Andrews, who made the arrest and Acting Captain Shrock and Sergeant Reardon, in an effort to prove that Jones was intoxicated when brought to police headquarters. Andrews and Reardon both testified that Jones was drunk.

Witnesses for the defense testified they had talked to Jones just before the accident and that he was not drunk. The accident was explained by Jones. He said that as he crossed the tracks from the east to the west side of the street, the wheels of his car locked. In an effort to prevent hitting the curb, he jerked his steering wheel frantically to the left, he said, the wheel breaking in his hands. The car swung into the trench. He also testified that Patrolman Andrews slapped his face when he reprimanded him for looking through the contents of the car which he said contained several bags of clothing.

The broken steering wheel was introduced as evidence by the attorneys, for the defense.

EIGHT TAKE CIVIL SERVICE TEST HERE

Four Patrolmen Seek Appointment as Police Captain; Four Want on Force

Four patrolmen took the tests for police captain and four others the examination for patrolmen at city hall last night. Appointments of a captain to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Steward Moody and a patrolman to take the place of the present patrolman elevated to captain will be made in a short time.

While the same subjects are used in the examinations for all applicants the questions asked those seeking the office of captain are more advanced. Four subjects are used, arithmetic, geography, spelling and the subject of police work.

The three applicants having the highest grades in both classes will be certified to the safety director by the civil service commission, and the appointment will be made by the safety director and mayor.

Those who took the examination for police captain were Ira Shrock, present acting captain, Howard Andrews, Harry Smith and A. W. McColly. The applicants for patrolmen were Cecil R. Miller, Henry B. Tong, George Flatter and Fred Haskell. The examination was in charge of J. E. Williamson, clerk of the civil service board, W. N. Harder, president of the board, W. N. Harder, vice president, and J. E. Messenger, secretary also was present.

Because of a trial being held in the court room, the examination was held in the health department offices on the second floor of the city hall.

A number of ex-service men, Clerk Williamson said last night, have filed applications for the position as patrolman. Under a law passed several years ago, ex-service men are not required to take an examination for a civil service position.

Senatorial Investigation into Mexican Charges of Hearst Publications Ordered

Washington, Dec. 10—The Washington Herald, which has been publishing an amazing series of charges concerning Mexican activities in the United States, published an editorial today stating that it welcomed the senatorial investigation of its charges which was ordered by the senate yesterday.

"It is extremely important," said the Herald, "that a committee of the United States Senate should investigate the truth of the statements contained in the unquestionably authentic documents of the Mexican government revealed to the people of this country by the Hearst publications.

"These documents contain evidence of an attempt on the part of representatives of the Mexican government to convey money in large sums to certain representatives of the American government."

The charges which prompted the Senate's unanimously ordering an investigation by a special committee of five senators were that during the year 1926 President Calles ordered the transfer of sums aggregating $1,215,000 to Arturo Elias, Mexican financial agent in New York, for delivery to four members of the United States Senate. The Herald reproduced the actual documents and asserted they had been obtained from the secret files of the Mexican foreign office.

BIRTH CONTROL HIT

Hungarian Government May Take Land Away from Childless Couples

Budapest, Dec. 10—Birth control finds no favor in Hungary. The government wants big families and will shortly propose a law depriving childless families of part of their lands and giving the ground to needy couples with large numbers of children.

Although the Hungarian birth rate is only surpassed by Italy in southwestern Europe, and Roumania in southeastern Europe, officials have begun to consider one-child families a national problem.

To 2,250 families owning large estates, only 40 children have been born annually during the past five years. In 20,500 families owning medium sized estates, the birth rate is only 1.3 per cent.

Statistics show that the birth rate is lower in districts where the standards of living is higher. In the neighborhood of the River Tisza, out of 298,000 couples 44,000 have no children and 40,000 have one child each. In the Barsnya district there are no children of school age in some villages.

There was nothing in Captain Lalor's message to indicate the whereabouts of the sampan on which he is being held.

13. The boulevard now is perhaps Marion's most beautiful drive.
14. Vernon Heights Park of four acres will in time be one of Marion's beauty spots.
15. The property is away from the factories and the noise and bustle of business.
16. The air is cleaner, the grass is greener, the flowers are brighter and the song birds are more numerous.
17. And home sites are underpriced—unimproved avenue lots $725 up to $1100; improved avenue lots $1500, $1660, $1920 and up to $3600; unimproved boulevard lots, $1250, $1500 and up; improved boulevard lots $2100, $2200, $2500 and up.

You can buy more for the money in Vernon Heights than in any other place in all Marion and your investment is protected by sane restrictions as noted above, and used in most high class subdivisions in this country.

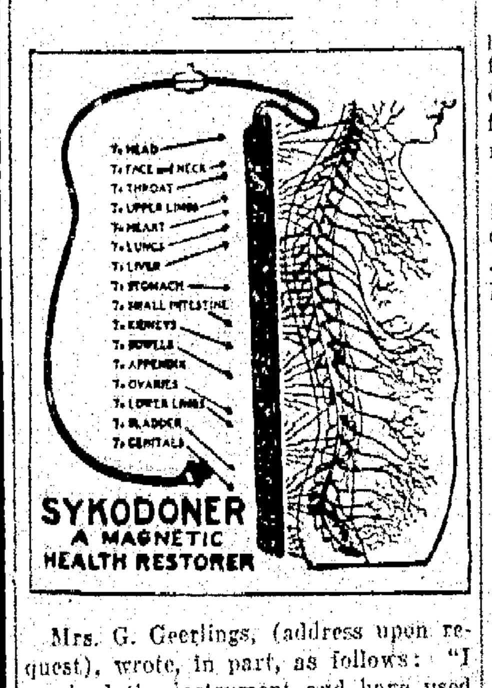
POOR INVALID FINDS HEAVEN

Sheds Tears of Joy. A Very Touching Letter. Has Not Walked For Sixteen Years.



Mrs. G. Geerlings, (address upon request), wrote, in part, as follows: "I received the instrument and have used it seven times. It has already made a great change in my body. I was so rejoiced I cried to think of your kind deed in sending it to me, a poor invalid. I cannot thank you enough. For I have so much to be thankful for. God bless you.

"I can already sleep better, and now my hands shut half way, although some of the fingers are solid like bone. The pain is leaving my arms, which were heavy; and now are light. My skin looks different; it was like goose flesh. The pain in my back and side is all gone. I could hardly turn in bed; but now it is easy. My legs are coming down straighter, and my feet do not contract.

"I am so grateful to you. My Thanksgiving will be joyful, for I can not eat, without suffering so much pain."

Glory be to God for this new discovery, the Sykodoner and what it will do for us. Can you blame Mrs. Geerling because her heart glowed over what relief she found? Oh! were it possible to see that poor mother smile thru her tears, as she wrote that touching letter! Surely God was watching over her. For to make a mother smile, is to make the angels sing.

The Sykodoner is the most amazing healing device ever heard of. It will enable you to trade your sorrow for happiness. You can be well. No matter how serious your case, or how long standing it is, how many doctors and methods failed you, or what you have been told—don't give up hope, don't regard your case as incurable until you have investigated the Sykodoner way—a unique method which is helping thousands back to health. No drugs, serum, surgery, or rubbing. The Sykodoner succeeds because it gets right at the seat of the trouble—removes "toxemia"—the universal cause of all disease. No shock or discomfort of any kind; no removal of clothing, even. The experience is delightful. A treatment takes but a few minutes.

Demonstration is free. Hours: 8 to 5 daily. Evenings and Sundays, by appointment, only. Calls made to homes, if necessary. Write for further information.

Stands Quietly

"Beach," the judge said, "a jury has found you guilty of the crime of voluntary manslaughter and the sentence of the court is that you be confined in state's prison, at hard labor, for a period of 10 years."

Beach, hands folded before him, stood very straight. He maintained his self-possession throughout the ordeal, and sat down afterward without a sign of emotion.

"Mrs. Lilliendahl, will you rise?" said the court.

The widow stood up very suddenly. She was not as calm as Beach. There were no tears, but her face twitched, and she seemed unsteady on her feet. The same formula of sentence was repeated.

George Bastian, 20, Pleads Guilty to Charge of Reckless Driving

George Bastian, 20, will have the privileges of celebrating his twenty-first birthday anniversary on Sept. 2 of next year by driving an automobile for the first time in approximately nine months.

Bastian, who resides at 507 Mary-st, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving when arraigned before Probate Judge L. B. McNeal this morning and had his right to operate a motor vehicle taken from him until the date of his next birthday.

He is the fourth motorist receiving this penalty in the last two weeks following announcement of Sheriff Deal's intention to demand revocation of driving rights for all speeders and other traffic offenders.

The affidavit against Bastian was filed by Deal after the latter spent several days investigating an automobile accident which occurred the night of Friday, Dec. 2 at Poorman's Palace, a roadside restaurant located on the Harding Highway near Garfield Park.

Bastian, the sheriff says, drove his car, a Dodge roadster, into the Parking space at Poorman's Palace and crashed into two other machines, both of which were badly damaged. The damaged cars were a Ford coupe owned by W. D. Barbour of Cleveland, and the Ford sedan of M. R. Eldridge, 798 Clinton-st.

Immediately following the crash, the sheriff states, Bastian drove away and was not definitely identified as the person responsible for the damage until yesterday, when the charge of reckless driving was filed against him.

Three other young men were riding with Bastian but their names were not made public.

UPPER SANDUSKY MAN DRAWS HEAVY FINES

I. R. Mankel, 38, Assessed $111.20, Deprived of Motorist's Rights

I. R. Mankel, 38, of Upper Sandusky paid two fines aggregating $111.20 in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty before Judge W. R. Martin to driving an automobile while intoxicated and to driving an automobile without the proper license plates. He was also deprived of his right to drive a car for six months.

Shortly before 10 oclock last night the police received a call from S. Prospect and Superior-sts where it was said an automobile driver had collided with a telephone pole. When the police arrived they found Mankel endeavoring to repair a broken bumper on his machine and a 14-inch telephone pole broken off. Aside from a broken bumper, head light and a bent fender, the car escaped serious damage.

Mankel told the police that he was going south on Prospect-st and in attempting to make the turn on Superior-st ran into the telephone pole. Number plates were missing from the machine, police said.

Boulder Dam Project.

The reference to the Boulder dam project made by President Coolidge in his message to congress, last Tuesday, calls to mind the fact that columns and columns have appeared in type regarding the proposed dam, but exceeding little to give the reader light on many matters in connection therewith which should be known in order that proper estimate of the merit of the proposed undertaking may be made.

We have been given the estimated cost of the proposed dam by its friends and by its foes, and there is decided variance between the two estimates. We know that a number of western states are in controversy over the proposal to construct it. We have been told a lot about flood control and had flowery visions of its power possibilities. The government, we have been told, could develop 1,000,000 horsepower. Of course, the proponents of the dam are silent regard the probable cost of such a power plant, while just as naturally its opponents hold it would cost ten times as much as the dam.

We may be wrong, but it seems to us that the present is not the psychological time to talk flood control other than a provision to control floods along the Mississippi, and the power idea does not appeal to us so strongly in the light of the government's experience with Muscle Shoals. But if the government is to go into the electrical power business at the proposed Boulder dam, it would be interesting to know what disposition is to be made of the power. The country in the vicinity of the proposed plant hasn't any power or lighting demand which would justify such a plant, and electricity can not profitably be carried an indefinite distance. If we have not been misinformed by writers on the subject, who should know whereof they speak, electricity is dissipated in transmission over a long distance, hence it may be well that the country be given some information as to where the current from such a plant could be used.

All in all, we are of the impression that there is merit in a recent observation of the Philadelphia Inquirer in discussing the Boulder scheme: "If it goes through," remarked the Inquirer, "no one need worry about the surplus in the treasury."

Not the Time, but the Spirit.

With Christmas five but two weeks away, no time could be more opportune than the present for an observation or two on the subject of shopping for the gladdest holiday of all the year.

There is ever and always the urge to "do your Christmas shopping early" and there is merit in it. The shoppers who purchase before the inevitable wild, last-moment rush is on has the advantage of larger and more varied stocks from which to make selections. Ends less competition for the attention of the sales-people, has more time for consideration of the merit of the goods displayed and, all other matters even, is bound to make better selections. Thus there is benefit to be had by the purchaser from the early-shopping plan, and it goes almost without the saying that it works to the benefit of the store people, for by just so much it lessens the avalanche of buying of the last day or two.

But it is not so much of the time to buy that we wish to speak as of the spirit in which to buy. Whether buying early or late, take the Christmas spirit with you. It is not so much the volume of trade which causes the awful strain upon the people behind the cases and the counters as the spirit of the buyers. The courteous buyers, the pleasant buyers, the buyers who enter shop and stores with cheer in their faces, are delights to the sales-people. Smiles and pleasant words go a long way in the business world. The proposition is mutually beneficial. The pleasant buyer makes the pleasant clerk, and the business relations between the two are perforce bound to proceed more smoothly and satisfactorily than would be the case were such pleasant relations not to obtain.

Holiday shopping may be either a pleasure or a matter for dread to buyers and sellers alike. Which it will prove depends very largely on the spirit in which it is undertaken. If the prospective purchaser of Christmas gifts has never tried the plan heretofore, we feel sure it would prove profitable to all concerned to keep in close touch with the Christmas spirit.

Paris Charge d'Affaires Whitehouse ridicules Congressman Gallivan's charge that the United States embassy had Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, "shadowed" while the mayor was in France. Manifestly, Mr. Whitehouse misses the funniest phase of Mr. Gallivan's charge—that the shadowing was done for political purposes.

A Campaign Against Noise.

A number of Londoners are organizing a campaign against noise. As one of them, Professor H. J. Spooner, an industrial fatigue expert, puts it, they plan to initiate their campaign by making a drive "to take the din out dinner and put the rest into restaurant."

They hold that "noise is the most inveterate thief of health;" that there can be no greater fallacy than to think it harmless because unnoticed by reason of the fact that people have become accustomed to it. The extent of ill-health and premature death resulting from noise they declare to be beyond estimate. Not only this, but they claim as well that the economic loss resultant from noise, due to the impairment of working capacity, is simply staggering, estimating that it easily amounts to not less than £1,000,000 weekly in England alone.

If noise in Great Britain is the awful health and life menace held out, what must be its toll over here in the United States, where the din through the daylight hours, at least, is almost unending? And if noise costs England $5,000,000 weekly by reason of its tendency to impair working capacity, what must be the mighty total it costs the people of America?

Perhaps Professor Spooner and his fellow-scientists may overestimate the ill-effects of noise; perhaps its toll upon health and vitality as well as upon production may not be anything like what they claim, yet it must be admitted that noise does exact both a health and an economic toll. Such a conclusion can no longer be questioned. It has been scientifically demonstrated both here in America and in other lands time and again.

In this light, no matter if these scientists overestimate the ills that come from noise, there is still good ground for the campaign they are initiating.

Health Essential to Success.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

When a student in college I occasionally played tennis on Saturday mornings with a young man who has come to be a great factor in the educational world. Now he is president of Yale. Following in the footsteps of his illustrious father, Dr. Angell is one of the greatest of the college presidents.

At the annual matriculation service last Fall, President Angell gave the entering class some wholesome suggestions. The doctor remarked whimsically that he would not undertake to advise the freshmen, because "advice unsought is rarely welcome and more rarely heeded."

What was said about health should be wisely read and heeded far beyond the boundaries of the Yale campus. Let me quote from Dr. Angell:

"What are the talents most essential for an honorable, profitable and happy four years at Yale? I do not hesitate to put in the forefront physical health and vigor. The ascetic and emaciated saint is a historic figure, and there are doubtless forms of spiritual experience which accrue to a complete mortification of the flesh. But unless one is prepared to defend the morbid view that life itself is unworthy and gladly to be left behind, one must look to bodily health as a blessing to be devoutly sought and scrupulously cherished.

"Not so ong ago," he continued, "our colleges gave most of their attention in physical matters to the athlete, who least of all stands in need of special opportunity; but now every man has his chance, not only for that refreshment of body and mind which comes from wholesome sport, but also for the constant advice and surveillance of men skilled in the cure and prevention of disease. Many men are handicapped, through heredity or accident, by physical defects which can not be wholly overcome, but it is an imperative moral obligation for every man to make himself as strong and robust as he can, to make himself the master and not the slave of the body and its demands."

There is much more I wish I might quote from Dr. Angell, but space does not permit. What I have given you shows how valuable is this contribution to the welfare of the young. I pray that these words may be read and pondered, not only by the youth of America, but by the teacher in the public schools and by every parent.

We must impress upon our young people that there rests upon each of them this moral obligation to be strong and robust. Too many times a weak body and ill health are the direct result of laziness, the failure to do the things necessary to have strength and abounding health. Let us heed Dr. Angell's suggestions.

Editorial Comment.

A TASK COMPLETED

Whatever the fate of the Poincare government in the February elections, the chief purpose for which it was created, that of saving France from financial ruin and the franc, possibly, from complete repudiation, has been accomplished.

The present government has succeeded in building up a reserve in gold and in foreign exchange of $1,250,000,000 to be used for the support of the franc in the event it is needed, and for its stabilization when the gold standard is reestablished. The view of French bankers is that this reserve is sufficient for both the purposes and that the days of French financial chaos are definitely behind.

Poincare, however, hesitates to take the last step in the program of financial reconstruction, that of definitely placing France again on a gold basis. Some months ago he was reported as favoring a higher stabilization value than the four-cent figure about which the franc has fluctuated so long. Whatever his thought in that respect he seems unwilling to commit himself definitely to this or to a higher stabilization figure, or to stake his immediate political future upon the gold standard issue.

But that should not be long avoided. If France is ready for the return to gold she should boldly follow England's lead whatever the immediate political consequences. Financial stability is more important than any individual's political career.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FOOTBALL AT NOTRE DAME.

Giving reasons for the remarkable success of Notre Dame's football teams, Coach Knute Rockne has many things to say that are of value to the physical and mental well-being of students and young men generally. He gives emphasis to the fact that there are no fraternities or co-eds at Notre Dame. That means no local distractions. The institution is isolated. When the boys are at school they do not fritter away their time with urban entertainments.

But outstanding among the reasons for the stamina of the football players is sleep. Notre Dame invariably goes to bed at 10:30 and gets up at 6:30—eight hours of solid sleep. Says Rockne: "A group of boys who have gone to bed all fall at 10:30 in the evening will have more 'bottom' than the fellows who have kept late hours to any extent." Thus he explains the endurance of the boys in the second half of their games.

Notre Dame further goes on the theory that if football is good for the members of the regular teams it is also good for every student who is physically able to play the game. The school has twelve dormitories, and for every dormitory there is a football squad of about thirty men, all animated by the spirit of rivalry. An abundance of material to select from, then, is another reason for football success at Notre Dame.—Toledo Blade.

THE AMERICAN PIE.

The question of the American pie versus the British tart is agitating London. Ever since the days when "the Queen of Hearts, she baked some tarts, all on a summer's day," England has been proud of her apple edifices. Now it seems as if the ubiquitous apple pie, as invented in New England, is running the apple tart a close race for first place in the hearts—and stomachs—of Britishers. If an American may take the attack of the London Evening News as typical, he may believe that the tart is becoming a poor second, for this is the way the News discusses the situation: "American pie breeds dyspepsia, dyspepsia breeds restlessness, and restlessness begets a feverish, but none the less formidable, material progress. The American apple pie is the sheer gastronimic equivalent of an incendiary bomb." For an American to learn that the beloved apple pie is the "sheer equivalent" of anything but an apple pie is "to laugh," as Americans sometimes say. The apple pie is simply the apple tart adapted to new conditions. Conditions are different in this country, and the apple tart evidently believed in the old adage, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do." So the apple tart became the apple pie and has so remained to this day, boldly, defiantly, proudly, and, if one may believe all signs, triumphantly.—Washington Star.

Poems That Live.

IF JUST ONE SHIP CAME.

If all the ships I have at sea
Should come a-sailing home to me
Weighed down with gems and silk and gold—
Ah, well, the harbor could not hold
So many sails as there would be.
If all my ships came in from sea.

If half my ships came home from sea
And brought their precious freight to me—
Ah, well, I would have wealth as great
As any king who sits in state.
So rich the treasures that would be
In half my ships now out at sea.

If just one ship I have at sea
Should come a-sailing home to me—
Ah, well, the storm clouds then might frown—
For, if all the others all went down,
Still rich and proud and glad I'd be,
If that one ship came home to me.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A young German of wealth and good family spent three months traveling through the Middle West studying farming. He also attended an agricultural college in this country. When he returned to Germany he said he hoped to come back here and be a good farmer "in about fifteen years."

Appreciation of the need of preparation is just what today's youth lacks. The average young fellow just out of college thinks he is equipped for any job so long as it pays a big salary. Youth needs the capacity for patience.

You may think you have a hard time to make a living and pay your debts—but take comfort from the facts. Although the population of the United States has greatly increased in the last twenty years there are fewer paupers by thousands than there were in 1919. Though we may sometimes feel we are not quite getting our share the fact is that prosperity is more widely spread around than ever in our history.

Poverty is one of the major curses of mankind. As we gradually abolish it we move toward a better world.

Writing of a traffic cop who served many years at a steamship pier in New York, a reporter says that "envy of those fortunate travelers whose whims carried them beyond the horizon never tinted McIntyre's view of life. He saw things clearly and in their simpler aspects and regarded them with equanimity. Accepting without question the doctrine that things are as you find them, Patrolman McIntyre took it for granted that European trips were for the wealthy, and a traffic cop was lucky to get a post at the piers."

And then along came a rich man who had been deeply impressed by the traffic man's kindness and courtesy, and sent the patrolman and his wife on a six months' pleasure trip to Europe.

Perhaps courtesy does pay. Perhaps there is such a thing as compensation in this world.

A news despatch says that a telegraph operator who had been unconscious for six days, as the result of shock and illness, was restored to consciousness by the ticking of his private Morse code on an instrument at his bedside. New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 10—The Bowery struggles bravely to throw off its cloak of squalor. And in the past three years has made more progress than all other streets. While it still has the glowering manner of the down-trodden here and there the new and opulent touches peep through.

The Bowery, in many ways, is New York's most distinctive street. It stands out like one of Hogarth's slum etchings. Next door to where a miserable humanity tries for sleep in lodging-house cubicles will be a glittering cafeteria dazzling with lights.

Or next door to a dim-lit greasy mission ladling out soup to shuffling outcasts will be a radiant flower store selling orchids. Always the effort of the Bowery is to lift its head. Its upstairs twenty-five-cent hotels have such names as the Plaza, the Ritz and the Chatham.

Across the street from where "students" in a barber college attempt to remove dirty gray stubbles from dry leathery cheeks is a beauty parlor called "The Aphrodite"—flashing with mirrors and white with a marbled magnificence. For the Bowery is not all poverty.

It has millionaires—often richer than residents on Park avenue. One sees movies criss-crossed with gaudy posters of thrillers, six-for-a-quarter post-card photos, sawdust hash-houses with window chalked menus and then one sweeps up to the Bowery Savings bank—one of the richest financial institutions in the world.

The Bowery has lost its swing-door saloons and the law and rule of the bungstarter. But in its cellars are still rancid dives with odors that can not be conquered by formaldehyde. Rot gut whisky and third-rail gin are still served to the bindle stiffs.

Tatooing parlors near Houston street flose up the arms of gobs. Penny arcades ring with a shooting gallery rat-a-tat-tat and beefy blondes flash spangled tights in burlesque halls. But the Bowery improves—slowly, but surely.

* * *

Chatham square, the doorway to Chinatown, is at the southern end of the Bowery and Cooper Union at the other. Originally it was a cow path to the Bouwerie—the farm given that name and owened by Peter Stuyvesant, the last of the Dutch governors of New Netherlands.

* * *

The noisiest tenement in New York is in Chatham square, a triangular red brick building traversed on all sides by the clattery-bang of elevated trains. The effect would be like sleeping in a boiler factory.

* * *

The famous "bread line" of the Bowery passed out a year after prohibition although bread and coffee are still served to those who attend nightly service in missions and "flop" in dingy back rooms.

* * *

The most curious sight in Chinatown is a funeral procession. On the hearse sits a man who throws showers of printed prayers. These, fluttering in the wind, are to confuse the devils. At the grave there is left for the dead a sumptuous meal consisting of roast pig, chicken and rice and the corners of the grave are sealed with red wax—also to keep out devils. Funny people—these Chinese.

* * *

In the elevator of a building that houses a famous woman astrologist, two sacks of mail were in the corner.

"She gets that much mail every day," said the operator.

* * *

Movie and stage people are said to be the most consistent patrons of the astrological parlors. Wall street financiers are also steady customers.

Dinner Stories.

Traffic Cop—"Hey, you! Get back there. You're over the white line."

Young Motorist—"Sorry, officer! Force of habit. I'm halfback on our college football team."

* * *

Police Chief—"Well did you work the third degree on that guy, as I told you?"

Detective—"Sure we did; we bully-ragged and criss-crossed, and tormented and badgered him every way we could think of.

"And—what did he have to say?"

"He just sort of dozed off and muttered 'S all right, Maria; s' all right—have it your own way.'"

* * *

Why bother to write jokes when one can get dialogue like the following, overheard at the bureau of naturalization?:

"Where is Washington?"

"He's dead."

"I mean the capital of the United States."

"Oh, they loaned it all to Europe."

"Do you promise to support the constitution?"

"Me? How can I? I've a wife and six children to support."

* * *

An old farmer who had never listened to a wireless set was persuaded to don the headphones.

"You don't know what you're missing, uncle," said his nephew. "It's a wonderful invention. Got the earpieces right? Well, then, I'll just switch on the——"

Suddenly there was a splitting, cracking streak of lurid lightning, followed by a peal of loud thunder. The old farmer sprang up out of his chair and fell on the floor. He came to half an hour later.

"Good heavens!" were his first words. "Maggie—and she's been dead thirty years."

WARNINGS ISSUED ON CHRISTMAS FIRES

Chief T. J. McFarland Gies Instructions for Proper Yuletide Decorations

Fires from Christmas decorations which have in the past, claimed victims throughout the United States as well as swelling the fire losses, can now be prevented without interferring in any way with elaborateness of any decorative scheme, it was declared by Fire Chief McFarland in his annual warning against Christmas fire, today.

Christmas decorations that are absolutely fireproof can now be purchased, the chief said, and there is no reason why anyone should use any other kind. Practically all of the downtown stores are using fireproof decorating material this year and it is being urged by the chief that the same precautions be taken by those selecting decorative material for homes.

Cotton and other material used in decorating have been made fireproof by treating with chemicals.

Things

Big Winds
Street Musicians
Stew Pan Styles

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

IN Ireland they say many events are remembered as happening either before or after the "big wind" and after last Wednesday night I have a hunch that some of our great-great grandfathers' descendants will chronicle happenings pretty much the same way. If you were abroad and on hand when the elements began their orchestration you were at a loss to decide whether you hadst best look for a soft place to light or try to pull a little Gertrude Ederle stuff and trust to fate that you would make some friendly port in the neighborhood of your own stoop. And worse still, if after a night of fitful dreams in which you saw yourself trying to interpret what the wild waves were saying or hurtling jauntily from one mountain peak to another via the air route you were compelled to battle the elements in the murky dawn. Folks don't look human at this hour anyhow and Thursday morning they looked worse than that muffled to the eyebrows with coat collars and scarfs. Signs creaked and chorused each one vieing with the other for the place of leader of the band and the best you could hope for was that one would not pull from its moorings until you were past. Nothing seemed safe that wasn't heavily anchored and even milk bottles were blown beyond recall to say nothing of papers and sticks lying loose on the street. Some energetic merchants, through force of habit I have no doubt, added to the chaos by sweeping the sidewalk as though it were the calmest of June mornings.

* * *

THE recent cold snap has driven to indoor shelter a familiar sight on Center-st, that of the elderly blind man who played the college-bred accordion beneath one of the trees on the court house esplanade. Folks whose business took them past the corner grew to look for the old musician and occasionally stopped for a minute if the tune he happened to be playing was a new one or one they particularly likes. Times weren't always quiet around the bandstand and once in a while the entertainment was augmented by some one who felt moved to trip the light fantastic when the notes of "Turkey in the Straw" wafted out over the pavement. Only once have I heard of any one bursting into song and that was this fall when business needed a little popping up and the accordion player started in on an old timer. He had evidently forgotten the words of the tune for he was having quite a struggle with the number when a big-hearted traveling man happened along and sensing his dilemma set down his grips joined in and carried the song to a triumphal finish as a duet. It was all in a day's work with the traveling man for after depositing a coin in the tincup he picked up his grips and fared forth without so much as a passing glance at the wondering bystanders.

THE lowly kitchen has come into its own with a vengeance. Not satisfied with having a style all its own, gayest of the gay refurbishings by way of curtains, breakfast sets and the like, but now there is a choice of colors in cooking utensils. Imagine what trumps the anaemic white or the colorless gray coffeepots must feel sharing shelf space with a gorgeous poinsettia-colored coffeepot or a cool looking pale green stewpan. And what a joy it is for the housewife. She can now choose her culinary articles as she does her gowns. Life would really seem worth while to be able to go to the pantry, decide on using the pink potato masher and then calmly pick up the yellow one with the black trimming.

... bothered you!"

How nice he was when he scowled! ... his voice—how angry that sudden... had become!

... put out her hand. "It doesn't ... matter—not really matter. I shall get ... if you make me tell you all about ... Please don't let's talk about it."

... I know—but where is he?"

"Please! Do you want to make me ... out to sea and jump on the yacht ...?"

And then he laughed. And Sally ...ughed too. And their eyes met gravely ... a moment of examination, so that ... she looked away. It was ... to manage her voice for some un... reason, hard to be casual some... and flippantly pretend that noth... in the world mattered or ever would ...

"My turn for asking questions," she said. "How did you get here?"

"Lucky thing I did. I stuck around the harbor for a day or so, hoping maybe . . . Well, anyway, what I hoped for didn't happen. So I began cruising around, exploring. You know I stay at my aunt's—only relative I've got—Mrs. Farrington. She has so much money that she faints every time she thinks of it. And she's trying to break in to the Newport crowd—I suppose you know all about it being in the Newport crowd yourself. Anyway, when things get rough around there, I clear out mostly, cruise around by myself."

He looked thoughtful and serious and solemn. Suddenly Sally wanted to laugh, but it was a queer tenderness that moved in her. Men—always pretending women were so helpless, when it was really men who were the helpless ones.

She huddled her knees up under the big coat. It seemed incredible that an hour ago she had been afraid of very death, and buffeted and sick from her struggle. And now talking away, just as if nothing had happened.

It wasn't hard to make him tell her thing about himself. He seemed anxious to do so.

"I want you to get me, you see?" he'd say, or "Listen, this may be boring you, but just the same I want you to hear how it happened."

And the little fragments of stories, the random phrases, built a picture for her. A picture of a happy, carefree young man who didn't know how courageous he was, who was all alone, like herself, and working most of the year among the lawless people of a South American mine, a gun at his hip, and watchful eyes for the treachery of a knife from behind. Heat and fever and monstrous snakes curling their way through a jungle, and a man handling men—for a pittance, and not grumbling. Oh, to be a man—there was something really great in being a man, if you behaved like a man, like Jerry Evesham!

And now he was on leave. "The man who gave me my job is up here mostly. And then there's my aunt."

"I think your aunt ought to give you a million or two."

"Well, it's her money. Besides I guess she needs it. Social climbing comes high." He squinted at the sun. "Grub—let's eat! Listen. I'll take you home on that ship of mine whenever you say so, but don't say so yet. Can you stick it out here longer?—I haven't enjoyed myself like this for—well, I've never enjoyed myself like this!"

He rowed out to his boat again and came back not as quickly as before, and Sally waited and thought and felt that she, too, was queerly, deeply happy. But she didn't want to find out why. It might spoil it all to find out why.

Her strength, with the swift rallying of youth, was hers again. And her chill had been effectually banished. She stood up watching his row-boat. He dumped out thing on the sand.

"Ship's pretty well stocked. We won't be so badly off. I caught a fish this morning, too. Can you cook?"

"Can I? Oh, isn't this fun?"

"Look out! There goes the cocoa in the water."

"You did it. Don't blame me."

"I know but I was looking at you."

"Well, that isn't my fault."

"It is. No girl has a right to be so pretty." Silence, a long silence. Jerry still looking at her. Being pretty—that was wonderful, but it didn't matter if you were or not, if—if somebody you liked thought you were.

The fire was driftwood, pungent and aromatic and cleverly arranged so that the smoke didn't get into one's eyes. The cheese got a bit soft, and even tried to run. Also toast was a total loss. But—Sally would remember that meal when she had forgotten all others.

They explored the island afterwards and were astonished to see the light fading from the sky. The sunset was a glow of soft colors and a sad hush hung over earth and sky. He stood beside her, and all at once, quite naturally his arm slipped around her. A little tremor ran through her, but she did not move, did not move until he had turned her towards him and set his lips against hers. So for a moment they stood silent, in each others' arms.

Then he released her. "I didn't mean to do that," he said angrily, almost somberly.

She was hurt. He had spoiled the thing, broken the moment of delicacy and surrender, with a banal scruple, a misunderstanding. Did he think this kiss just any kiss—how could he be so stupid? Her eyes were smouldering.

"Oh, perhaps—perhaps you'll get over it," she said quickly, trying hard to be light, careless, worldly.

"I didn't mean that. I mean—you're the most beautiful and charming girl I've ever seen, and I want to know you and know you and know you. But I can't. How can I let myself be mad about you when I haven't got a nickel and you—"

She smiled a little then. "What makes you think I'm wealthy?"

"I've got eyes, haven't I? And you're used to things. And I'd only make myself miserable knowing you better because—because even if I could ever make you care for me—I've nothing to offer, no luxuries. And I shouldn't want to—to be a kind of appendage, to be supported."

"That is a shame." Sally still smarted from her first reaction. She was torn by the desire to give way utterly, to face him, tell him she didn't have a nickel either and she didn't care, but she couldn't tell him that. She couldn't explain that, not yet. And in her hurt pride and confusion, she became perverse, saying things with a lightness that insulted the depth of her own warm feelings.

"Really? . . . You're unusual, aren't you? What a pity we can't see each other any more in that case . . . For I have enjoyed myself. Still, we ought to be going home."

He nodded without speaking. Across her shoulder as they rowed out, she watched the charred embers of the fire sending its faint smoke up in the soft, summer evening. The dingy boat fortunately made conversation impossible, for above it rattling engines only a shriek could have been heard. So, too, was the ancient Ford which he helped her into at the wharf when they were back. But though it shook as if it might come to pieces, and Sally sat straight and high in the air, it was an enchanted car to her, driving through an enchanted twilight.

She knew what had happened to her now. She knew she was in love. And at the door Jerry came out of his trance.

"See here, I'll try to make some money somehow! Anyway, I'll call you up tomorrow. Will you be in at ten?"

Would she be in at ten? Would the sun come up or the earth go on rotating on its axis!

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

LILLIAN ENLISTS MADGE

AT Lillian's question I sent my memory back over the afternoon of my call at The Larches, when little Mrs. Townsend had commented upon the resemblance of Eleanor Lincoln and the dog Fodor.

"Oh!" I knew Mrs. Townsend just said the girl was upset at her comment," Lillian went on, "but I noticed you evaded a direct answer to her. It's your reaction I want, not Mrs. Townsend's. She has a superficial cleverness and she's jumped to a conclusion perilously near the truth but I couldn't make any deduction from her conclusions."

I flushed with pleasure at her flattering inference and tried to make my tone judicial as I answered.

"There was no doubt about it. The girl was not only upset, but there was real terror in her eyes when Mrs. Townsend spoke of the resemblance. She was heroic—and adroit—however, in her attempt to disguise her agitation. I thought I was the only one who noticed her distress, but from a comment Mary made afterwards, I am sure she observed it, and now we have heard Mrs. Townsend's reaction."

"It must have been pretty apparent," Lillian commented, "and proves conclusively that she was upset. Then of course her sudden retraction of her promise to pose for Picky, when she found out that he wanted to draw her with her hand resting on the dog's head, clinches the fact that she has some very good reason for not wanting to call attention to her resemblance to that picture, or to her real identity. I'll stake a good deal on one thing, however. If she's involved in what I think she is, it's as an innocent participant. But that won't help her when the Judgment Day comes."

I looked away to hide the question in my eyes, for Lillian's tone as well as her manner told me that she could not or would not explain what she meant by her allusion. The next instant I felt her hand clasping mine warmly.

"Sorry, old dear," she said contritely, "but you know my little ways. I simply cannot tell even you some of the things I'm working on. Besides it would be absurd to fill your ears with guesses which are all I have to offer now. But I want to ask you this. See as much of the young woman as you can and ring me in on it. I want a chance to look her over and study her. Incidentally, I want to watch Phil Veritzen when he's talking to her, and off guard. I don't mean any evening party or afternoon call—but—I don't now how you'd manage it, but couldn't you get them over here for the day sometime soon?"

"I don't see how that could be managed," I said slowly, "But what's the matter with giving a beach picnic with a pirate steak?"

Lillian jumped to her feet and seizing my hands drew me upright and whirled me around in a dance step.

"You prize of all the world!" she said. "A beach picnic, where we'll all be down at the shore all day and where everybody's sure to be off guard sooner or later! It's the very ticket! I wish you didn't have to give it, though. I don't want it to appear that you're anxious to get them all over here, especially on Mary's account—it looks too much like angling for Noel. You've noticed, I suppose, that the young man has been conspicuous for his absence ever since the night of the dinner."

"Yes," I admitted, "I have, and I share your opinion about appearing to be anxious for him to come back. But if you must have them all together, why—I don't see any other way, only——"

"Wait a second," Lillian interrupted, "I have a scheme."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Today was Saturday and another week is gone. Christmas will be here almost before I know it, and I expect I'll be lucky if I keep what I've got, let alone get anything else.

My grandfather said to my father whilst I was feeding my face and Jubilee was waiting for me and some pancakes outside, that he supposed he was going to get me something pretty nice for Christmas seeing I had been such a good boy all year. My father looked supprized and my aunt sniffed with her nose. My mother looked at me and smiled the kinda way that no one else but a mother knows how to do, and she reached over and put another egg on my plate. My father said when he was a boy he was mighty lucky to get his board and clothes, and my grandfather said he thought so too, but that I am not that kind of a boy. Then my father said that if he got a new pair of boots or a buck saw to saw the family wood with he was as proud as Looficer. My grandfather said according to that if I was to get another cow to milk and another milk pail I ought to strut my stuff all over the neighborhood, and my father said "Something like that." Then my grandfather said, "There must be a little Scotch in you," and my father said he wished there was because it would go good on a cold morning like this was. My grandfather said he never got anything when he was a little boy either, and that was what made him want little boys now to get things. And he pulled out a dollar and gave it to me and told me to make my plans for Christmas and to not to tell anyone what I was going to do with the money, because it was my money.

Me and the lunch went to town and I bought a dollars worth of newspapers and each of us took some, and scattered to the different corners and began to holler and sell papers to everyone that came along. When we had got them sold out, we had made another dollar and Petty had a black eye, and Peanuts had a puffed up lip and Niba thinks he swallowed one of his front teeth, because he couldn't find it anywhere. The town kids think they own the corners to sell papers on, but they have got another think coming. Tomorrow morning we are going to start in early and make some more money selling Sunday papers, and if anyone thinks they can stop us I'd like to be there when they do it.

I played checkers with my grandfather after supper, and let him win every game. I think he got his dollars worth, but I will play any time he wants me to—anyhow till after Christmas.

Will Gets New Ford

Cowboy Humorist Calls on Henry, Sees Vast Collection of Antiques, Grabs Promise of Free Car at Luncheon and Rides to Chicago in Plane

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers and what I find out as I prowl around over the commonwealth. I went out the other day to see Mr Henry Ford. He seemed to be kinder usherin' in getting out his new vehicles. So I just went back to see what was the matter. I had been to see him several times before, and I felt I knew him well enough to know that he would receive me, and maybe show me the car. You know he is one of the friendliest men I ever met. It's kinder strange, but he and John D. Rockefeller, our two wealthiest men, are the most modest and plain men I ever met. Both easy to talk too and interested in everything.

Well, when I got out to the Ford experimental offices I was ushered into Mr. Leibold's office. He is the private Secretary of Mr. Ford, and is a very friendly, accommodating fellow. He has eight children, the oldest 10 years, so you see this mass production has had its effect.

Ford "Antiquing"

He said Mr. Ford was out in the country somewhere looking at some old antiques. You see there is a difference between an old antique and an Antique. The workmanship of the old antique was the best that a man could do, while the work of a modern antique is the worst that the modern workmen can do.

Oh yes, I must tell you about this antique business in connection with Mr. Ford. We went over later to see it. He has a little antique shop. Oh just a kind of cozy corner where he stacks a few of his curios. The place is about the size of Soldiers field in Chicago, only it is all roofed over. The first little nick nacks you come to, is a few threshing machines. Oh, not more than forty or fifty. Every kind that ever was made. Then comes the vehicles. If you ever rode in a buggy or old farm wagon, or buckboard, and have often wondered what ever become of it, why stop wondering. It's right in Mr. Ford's collection. You see he figures that everything moves in cycles, and in a few years people will be tired of the Auto, and go back to the buggy. Well, when they do he will be right there and have you riding in his conveyances as usual, so no matter what you ride in, its going to be a Ford. He has enough buggys and wagons to clog up the roads the same as he is doing now with the cars.

Going To Have a Town

He's got old spinning wheels, hundreds of them. Old chairs, millions of 'em. Then of course Automobiles, every kind he ever made and every kind anybody ever made. He told me he has already bought the houses to re-erect an old time village. Every time he sees an old unique looking place he buys it and has it ready to move and put in this village. It will have old mills and stores and just like they used to be. He will then use all this stuff in fixing and furnishing them. He already owns the old school house where Mary and her Lamb, or Little Red Riding hood or some of those old time Characters used to go to school. So if you got anything in the way of old plunder like furniture and you are [illegible] to him and [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] [illegible] nothing more [illegible]

Edsel Disappointed

He [illegible] to [illegible] half the day [illegible] Mr. Ford [illegible] told me he [illegible] was going [illegible] can [illegible] can imagine what [illegible] and everything in it [illegible] I was kinder disappointed that the car didnt do that. For the old one would. I won't tell you about it, for many of you will have one by the time you read this. I found out everything about the car but the cost. I couldent find out that. They claim they don't know till they get more into production and see what it cost us. I offered him fifty dollar [illegible] first payment on the first one out. (This was sitting at the luncheon table.) He wouldn't take it, but Edsel reached for it. When I pulled it back, Mr. Ford said he would give me the first one for sale in California, with his compliments. Edsel looked kinder disappointed, as he is business manager and has to be responsible for the money. He didn't like to see the concern starting out on too liberaly a basis.

I wanted to give 'em the fifty as I figured that would cover the cost and put 'em in the clear, even if they never [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] figure [illegible] West I [illegible]

Sees Aviation Future

[illegible] He [illegible] He [illegible] [illegible] 100 or 200 [illegible] [illegible] to the trip.

He [illegible] He [illegible] Coolidge. He said it was fixed for that [illegible] meaning that Wall Street is the [illegible] of our Politics. I asked him [illegible] the Democrats would run. He [illegible] I had never thought of it. He [illegible] would. I told him that was the trouble they would. I told him I had always said sure Coolidge would run again. But he didn't think so, so I imagine his judgment is a little better than mine. He is going his new car out. He is satisfied with it. He has made friends with the World and he just seemed to be as happy as a kid. Here was a fellow who had spent 150 million dollars to make a few changes in his business and he wasent batting an eye over it. He is 64 I think. He is active and alert. He knows all his machinists by name and stops and they tell over what they are working on. He is a great man. Just about the greatest we have.

Something that is all hers!

Perhaps she has suggested, as women so often do suggest, that you give her this Christmas something for the home. But wouldn't you really prefer to give her something for the home and for her, too—something that would show her unmistakably just how much you do care, how much you want to relieve her of every possible burden?

Give her a Hoover. It tells so plainly that you want her to have less drudgery in her life, more rest and fun. It shows that you care enough for her youth, her happiness, to safeguard them. And safeguard them the Hoover will.

Its exclusive cleaning principle, "Positive Agitation," gives faster cleaning of rugs—to save her time; easier cleaning—to save her strength; and deeper cleaning—to save her treasured floor coverings.

Come in this week and arrange to have the Hoover sent out for Christmas. Pay only $5.00; the balance you can pay in 12 small monthly amounts. Easy, isn't it? And, too, there is a new popular-priced Hoover priced at no more than an ordinary vacuum cleaner.

Marysville High School Five Beats Kenton Cagers 35 to 29

SAY REED INQUIRY NOT TO SAVE PAIR

Slush Fund Committee To Organize Late Today for Smith, Vare

Washington, Dec. 10—With Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania standing out on the sidelines, the Reed Slush Fund Committee was to meet this afternoon to organize a new investigation into their 1926 senatorial primaries.

The double-barreled inquiry, requested by both Smith and Vare supporters, probably will get under way next week but it is a foregone conclusion that it will not save either man his seat in the Senate. Indications point to their ultimate exclusion by an even greater vote than were cast in denying them their oaths of office.

The Reed committee will reopen its public hearings on the slush fund charges as soon as the Senate acts upon a resolution, restoring all the powers it held while probing campaign expenditures last summer. Most of the witnesses heard probably will be called by the solicitation of either Smith and Vare. There was every likelihood the committee would file its final report on both men early in the new year.

Vare's fate virtually was settled yesterday when the Senate refused him the oath by a 55 to 31 majority and then referred his case to the Reed committee, without the oath, by a 56-to-30 margin.

U. S. GIVEN RECORD

Lieutenant Champion's Altitude Mark Recognized; Daring Feat Recalled

Washington, Dec. 10—Another international air record came winging back to America today when word was received that the Aeronautique Internationale had recognized the 38,559 feet by Lieut. C. C. Champion, U. S. N., here last July as constituting a world altitude record for heavier-than-air machines.

Champion barely escaped with his life on the attempt to break the record, for his engine burned out and his plane caught fire. In a semi-conscious state, because of lack of oxygen, he plunged nearly seven miles downward, finally regaining control of his ship and setting it down in a Maryland cornfield.

The highest previously recognized altitude record was 36,564 feet, made by Sadi Leconte, the French aviator.

WOMAN REITERATES MRS. REMUS GOOD

Declares Slain Wife of Defendant Led "Blameless" Life

Courthouse, Cincinnati, Dec. 10—Severe cross-examination today of Mrs. Elizabeth Felix, a dark-eyed, cultured woman of Birmingham, Ala., at the trial of George Remus for the murder of his wife, Imogene, failed to shake her story that the slain Mrs. Remus, whom she knew intimately in Atlanta, led a "blameless" life and was loyal to the man who shot and killed her.

Mrs. Felix, wife of a construction contractor reiterated under a fire of questions from Defense Attorney Charles H. Elston that Mrs. Remus behaved herself with propriety while Remus was behind the prison walls in Atlanta for violation of the prohibition law.

Defense witnesses have tried to show that Remus was driven insane by his wife's alleged conduct with Franklin L. Dodge, the dry sleuth, who had him put in jail.

NO STATEMENTS MADE AT GALION

Announcement of State Examiner's Report Arouses Interest and Comment

Galion, Dec. 10—The recent reports of the state examiners regarding irregularities in various departments of the city government have occasioned much comment among citizens of Galion. Although it has been a well known fact for several years that there were many uncollected accounts in the water and electric power departments, the exact amount of the unpaid bills was not known until the reports of the state examiner were made public.

City officials have given out no statements in regard to the now much discussed subject. City Solicitor George Davies, who is at present completing the unexpired term of Louis Krieter, who recently resigned, and who is also the newly elected solicitor, refused to comment as did various other officers and councilmen.

In spite of the large amount owed the city by numerous private and corporation consumers, the financial condition of the city is the best that it has been in many years, officials say.

Mayor H. H. Hartmann, who has been criticized by state officials, will begin his seventh term as mayor Jan. 1 and will be supported by a city government composed entirely of Democrats with one exception.

Kenton, Dec. 10—Ridgeway High School carried away the little end of a 31 to 18 score Friday night when it played the St. Anthony Institute five here before a somewhat small crowd.

The Kenton team, appearing in its first game of the season, showed well in both defensive and offensive playing and had little trouble in maintaining the lead which they established in the opening quarter.

Ridgeway players experienced some difficulties in playing on a strange floor which handicapped them some. Charley Friedel, forward, easily starred for Kenton scoring a total of 12 points. Johnnie Quinn was a close runner-up with 9 tallies.

Knepper, Ridgeway's center, ran wild during the game scoring 12 tallies.

Playing with Ridgeway were: Fisher, Wilson, Knepper, Perry, Focht, starting the game, and Scott, Charis M. Perry, Scott, C. Focht and Fischer Perry, as subs. Kenton's line-up included C. Friedel, Manlick, Prater, Taylor and Quinn, starting, and Gelhaus, Rohr, and Bernard, subs.

Girls Slip Through To Win Preliminary Tilt by 31-0 Score

Nevada, Dec. 10—Nevada High School came off with a clean slate in two basketball contests at the local school gym last night with teams representing Marseilles High School.

Too one-sided to be interesting from the spectator's point of view, the girls' contest proved unique because of the final score: Nevada, 31; Marseilles 0.

After being "white-washed" for the entire first period, the Marseilles boys came back to even Nevada's scoring in the second quarter and outpoint the locals in the two final periods but failed to overcome the early lead, losing 30 to 20.

Shipp Taken Out

The first three quarters found the two teams battling away at an even pace. In the final period Shipp went out on fouls. This gave Marysville its opportunity and the game was soon on ice.

Burkett will have plenty of room for improving his squad during the next several weeks. Practically every Kenton player had trouble in banging onto the ball, with fumbling playing an important part in the defeat. The local's defense presented no problem for the visitors to solve.

In the preliminary tilt, the Kenton High school seconds lost to Huntsville by the score of 20 to 13, Kenton led at the half and the third quarter.

The following are the summaries of the game:

Minstrels To Be Heard

WEAF CHAIN SCHEDULE FEATURE

Over Network Monday

An hour of old-fashioned minstrelsy will greet radio listeners of the red network at 9:30 o'clock Monday night. The program will be the regular "family party" feature broadcast to the network stations from WEAF, New York. Mr. Bones, Mr. Tambo, a typical interlocutor and other trimmings of the minstrel show of yore will be offered to stir the memory of the older generation and to catch the fancy of the youngest. Modern jazz music and songs will be interspersed with melodious old favorites of blackface entertainment.

Wagner's "Farewell of Wotan" will be played by the Mediterraneans in an hour's program, to be broadcast through WJZ and the blue network at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A number of other compositions by Dvorak, Herbert, Saint Saens and others will be included in the broadcast. New Crop of Stage Plays Show Little Promise of Reaching Ripe Old Age

Dimond Reviews "Brass Buttons," "The Banshee," "Out of the Sea" and "Happy"; Don Marquis' New Effort Proves Disappointing to Critics

BY BUSHNELL DIMOND
Star Staff Correspondent

New York, Dec. 10—Business on Broadway box office last week had the natural reaction to the previous week's holiday boom. Nearly every show was affected, but generally conditions were no better and no worse than the experience of previous years during the same period.

In spite of this, Monday brought four new plays to Broadway. Don Marquis' "Out of the Sea," a drama, with Lyn Harding; the musical comedy, "Happy," with Fred Santley, Percy Helton, Shirley Sherman and Madeline Fairbanks playing the leads; "The Banshee," another mystery play, and "Brass Buttons," a sloppy drama with an excellent cast.

I don't believe any of these are here to stay. "Brass Buttons" has an excellent cast, including Beryl Mercer, chirping in low-and-high Irish after the best traditions of Mother McGee, and a young actress called Muriel Kirkland who is gifted with a husky, resentful little voice and amazingly expressive hands. In fact, Miss Kirkland is the only justification for the play because it shows what Miss Kirkland can do with a prosperous role and holds out promise of what she might do with a good one. The play is a mild, innocuous, tear-soaked study of life above a delicatessen shop.

Don't Play Not So—

"Out of the Sea" was another disappointment. This is the new Don Marquis play which had been a hopefully awaited item of the present season's theatrical fare. But its promise failed to materialize when it disclosed itself as an elaborate but futile abstraction.

For library purposes only, this dull and seldom eventful tale of another Lady from the Sea would have great appeal, one suspects, than is the case when it is played for four acts by a company that lingers fondly over every sombre line. There was little in the performance to aid the none too powerful effect of the play as theater, and theater alone.

In the cast Rollo Peters played the young poet relentlessly. Lyn Harding, if one a per was finally extinguished by his own whiskers, splendid as whiskers but for so helpful otherwise.

O. P. Heggie couldn't do anything badly if he tried. Perhaps he did try a bit, but he didn't succeed. Beatrix Thomson was the sex-washed lady in the case and not at all interesting.

Not So Unny

A boisterous lot of boys and girls brought another collegiate musical comedy to Broadway last week and called it "Happy". It was an opera; in others it wasn't so much so. It's another of those campus outups which isn't funny because the recent issues of College Humor haven't been as funny as they used to be, or else that the collaborative minds of Vincent Lawrence and McElbert Moore weren't hitting on all forty-two keys of the typewriter.

The boys and girls from dear old Hadley were eager and willing, but they hadn't much but enthusiasm. Several of the songs were tuneable notably "Through the Night" and "Lorelei." Some of the others will make good for trots, but "Happy" lacks a resounding, smashing hit, and that is just too bad.

Percy Helton, Bill Brown, Fred Santley, Shirley Sherman and Madeline Fairbanks are featured in a huge cast.

And It Did

For the material for "The Banshee," a melodramatic mystery farce, the authors dipped liberally into Irish folk lore, Indian mysticism, hypnotism and almost every other grabbag from "The Bat" to "Dracula" threw in a plot about a will, a know-it-all sheriff, a half-wit, a couple of superstitious darkies and a hard-faced housekeeper, as grim as a pallbearer, and then let nature take its course.

"The Banshee" is not likely to win the Pulitzer prize for the winning year, but it is amusing withal and contains a lot of laughs. The play is well cast, several of the players offering excellent characterizations.

This week brings another offering from Richard Boleslavsky's interesting group of youngsters at the American Laboratory Theater. This is Knut Hamsun's "At the Gate of the Kingdom". This is the first of Hamsun's plays to be produced in English in America and promises to far excel anything that the Laboratory Theater players have yet produced. But more of this next week when I have seen the production and can give you a definite criticism.

VAN-BUR RADIO CO. IS GRANTED PATENT

Concern Given Exclusive Right To Manufacture Long-Tone Travel Speakers

Official notice that a patent has been be negotiated with some of the leading long tone travel speaker was received here yesterday by Arthur A. Van Atta and C. E. Burk, officials of the company who are inventors and designers of the speaker. All papers covering the patent accompanied the notice.

Today Mr. Van Atta, president of the company, announced that a campaign for establishing a nation-wide market for the speaker, said to be the only one of its type for which a patent has been issued, will be planned at once. It is expected that contracts will be negotiated with some of the leading radio companies of the country. The long-tone speaker, it was stated, can be used with any receiving set.

Although the company perfected the speaker several months ago and has been selling it through a number of dealers in different localities, plans for producing it on a large scale were delayed until issuance of the patent.

Plan Plant Here

The Van-Bur company has contracted for manufacture of the speaker with the management of a factory at Coshocton. Eventually, it was stated, a plant will probably be established in Marion. The Van-Bur company now operates an assembling plant in the Schwinger building on N. Prospect-st.

The Van-Bur speaker is the only one on the market constructed entirely of wood. It provides remarkable clear reception by eliminating metallic sounds and practically all other foreign noise, officials of the company state.

Although compactly built, occupying no more space than other speakers, the one made by the Van-Bur company has a sound chamber 84 inches in length.

In applying for the patent, the company was represented by John H. Clark, local attorney.

RUTH, MILLE DOLLS

Poor Southampton Children Will Be Made Happy by Sailors

LONDON, Dec. 10—Two of America's favorite heroines, Ruth Elder, the flier, and Mrs. Mille Gade Corson, English Channel swimmer, will be familiar figures to many poor Southampton children this Christmas. More than 250 dolls, fashioned to represent Miss Elder and Mrs. Corson, and dressed by stewardesses aboard the liner Aquitania, will be distributed along with others at a children's tea given by crews of Cunard liners at Southampton at Christmas time. Because Miss Elder and Mrs. Corson were passengers on the Aquitania, the stewardesses decided to fashion some of the dolls after these two record breakers.

Between eighteen and twenty million British women are bobbed or shingled.

Movie Organist Rises to Fame in Pictures

NEWS OF CINEMA, ETC.—PICKUPS

BY LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10—The difference between playing synchronizing and sentimental tunes in a movie theater and being actually a part of the film colony can be described perfectly by Jeannette Loff. Rod La Roque's leading woman in "Fifty Fifty Yale."

Not so very long ago this same Miss Loff took her courage in her hands and gave up her job as the organist in a Portland movie theater to try her luck in Hollywood. Of the number of girls who do this and fail, the average is about ninety-five out of every hundred.

* * *

FOR the sake of other ambitious organists, let me say it took me this for her to achieve any sort of a place in the movies. If Rod hadn't been searching the highways and byways for a leading woman, and finally saw some tests of this girl she would probably still be cooling her heels in the casting office.

"Hold 'Em Yale" is the Owen Davis play originally called "At Yale." Hector Turnbull, who is supervising it, has selected E. H. Griffith to direct and George Drougold to write the scenario.

* * *

THOMAS MEIGHAN'S Caddo contract, in the throes of negotiations when I rumored it a few weeks ago, has been completed. His production troubles now belong to Howard Hughes instead of Adolph Zukor.

I suppose it doesn't actually make much difference, since Paramount will continue to release Tommy's opuses.

He makes two pictures for Caddo, this company assuming all financial responsibilities and production worries. Tommy is one of the few stars to have been with Paramount almost since the inception of the company. The new affiliation gives him a chance to make his own pictures somewhat on the plan adopted by Harold Lloyd and Fred Thompson.

Although the details of the Caddo transaction were not made public, it is a well known fact that Tommy received $1,000,000 for the seven pictures he made per year for Paramount. Of the seven, there are two left on his contract and these Caddo will produce, starting Jan. 1.

* * *

I WAS just about to remark in this column that 1927 ends with very few contracts being signed with stars for more than one picture when Lois Wilson upset my comment by agreeing to make five pictures this coming year for Columbia.

One thing about Lois, you can usually depend upon her to make her decisions unhesitatingly. In other words, she knows what she wants. For example, remember the historic occasion when she walked out of the Paramount studios and refused to continue because they wanted her to make westerns?

Now I suspect the rumor that Columbia has some big plans this coming year may have had something to do with her signing for five pictures for this company.

* * *

H. B. WARNER is back on the De Mille lot. The man who was headlined as Christ in "The King of Kings" returns to his former camping ground opposite Vera Reynolds in "Walking Back." The title sounds rakish, although with all solemnity we are told that it is a powerful part with regeneration as the theme.

* * *

CONRAD VEIDT has no idea of hiding his character acting under heroic roles. It takes a real artist to take a radical character and make it convincing and Weidt's next for Universal, "The Charlatan," calls for all of his best resources.

It gives Veidt a chance to present the sort of characterization of which he is past master.

Carl Laemmle Jr. will supervise. George McFaul will direct. Robert Lee is writing the scenario.

* * *

THE choice of a leading man these days is a question of great significance. The picture is all any young star needs in Hollywood to give him a foothold. Charles Delaney, for instance, proved in "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" and now he is Laura La Plante's lead in "Home James," about to be filmed at Universal City.

* * *

IN the younger generation of authors John Farrow writes with an interesting facility. Mr. Farrow has just finished Cecil B. DeMille's completed scenario "Toward the Moon." Father Rod La Rocque or William Boyd will appear in Mr. Farrow's tale.

* * *

THE change of directors on John Barrymore's picture, "Tempest," will cause a difference with Dorothy Sebastian who was borrowed for five weeks. She is to play opposite Ramon Novarro in his next picture, and since Sam Taylor, the newly appointed director, is making changes in the script she cannot be spared from her home studio any longer. Camilla Horn, United Artists' most recent importation therefore, is being given a chance to emote immediately. I predict she will be a sensation.

Rickard Plans Two Heavyweight Championship Fights Next Summer

Dempsey to Get Third Chance at Tunney Next Fall in Chicago Battle

Winner of Sharkey, Heeney Fight To Meet Gene at Yankee Stadium in July; Tex Ignores All but Three Applicants for Chance at Crown

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—There will be two heavyweight championship matches next summer, just as our Mr. Tunney predicted, the only difference being that Tex Rickard will promote both of them and Jack Dempsey will appear in only one, the last. Incidentally, it will be Dempsey's only start of the campaign, there being no disposition on his part or anybody else's, to give any elimination contests a passing thought.

This was the information that came to the writer today from a source that just cannot be ignored. Apparently, the business is on.

Two Left

The elimination tourney, so called, would seem to be about over before it starts with all contenders considered to be eliminated except Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney. Why the forbearance in their cases? Well, they have to send some one in there with Tunney for that first championship bout. My information is that some one will be the winner of the Sharkey-Heeney fight next month.

This fact, too, is said to have furnished the answer for Paulino's sudden break with Rickard and his announcement that he intends to tour the country. It seems that he was to have had more time than matches under Rickard's patronage.

The program, as outlined to me, calls for the warm-up championship of the world at the Yankee Stadium in July. Then, it being assumed that our champion can and will beat Sharkey or Heeney as may please his fancy, it will be on to Chicago for the third episode of the Dempsey-Tunney serial. This, it is said, will take place in September.

No Trouble About Jack

No trouble is anticipated in making the public accept Dempsey as the challenger, as is and without further ado. In fact, the public seems to feel that Dempsey is the real champion, anyhow, basing its theory on that much discussed long count over Tunney in the seventh round.

This discussion, by the way, has resulted in the feeling here that a third Dempsey-Tunney fight will outdraw the second, the idea being that an enraged citizen usually meets the box office man coming to work. The number of hombres who think Dempsey got the worst of it are legion, as we say at the old hitching post.

Therefore, Rickard may be pardoned for believing that a third fight is a vital necessity. He may even be excused for a revived hope that he really will get that three million dollar gate this time.

It might be mentioned, in closing, that Rickard never yet has stated that Dempsey will engage in an elimination bout. At least, no one has caught him at it.

BUCKS MEET BISHOPS IN FIRST CAGE GAME

Contest Will Be Witnessed by Large Number of Ohio Coaches

Columbus, Dec. 10—It was not so many years ago that Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan used to battle it out for basketball honors in the old Ohio Gym. Honors were always fairly divided and a traditional rivalry took form that will still be in evidence Saturday night at the Coliseum where the curtain raiser of the 1927-1928 season once more brings these two teams together.

Ohio has an "average" team this year; Wesleyan is more or less of an unknown quantity but is out to avenge the 32 to 19 defeat of 1926.

Plans for the basketball clinic being sponsored by the Athletic Association of the University and of the Ohio high schools are complete and call for an interesting session from 10 a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. at the gymnasium, followed by a trip to the Wesleyan game. At least 300 mentors of state high school and College quintets are expected to attend this clearing house for problems that confront the coach and official of the indoor pastime. Every phase of the game is to come up and be discussed by Ohio's leading experts.

The next game on the slate for Ohio will follow in one week when Muskingum comes here. Time of all games this winter is set at 8 o'clock.

Iowa Alumni Criticise Hawkeye Coach Because of Numerous Defeats

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 10—President Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa today admitted he had conferred with representatives from various alumni associaions over the state who asked the removal of football coach Burt Ingwersen.

Criticism of Coach Ingwersen developed during the football season after Iowa had lost several games. What action will be taken, if any, was not stated.

Athletic director Paul Belting said he did not know of the alumni meeting, and that as far as he knew Ingwersen would remain as coach.

MILLER HUGGINS TO STRENGTHEN YANKS

Wants Pitcher and Outfielder; Has Eye on George Uhle

New York, Dec. 10—Although the New York Yankees won the 1927 American League pennant by 19 games, Manager Miller Huggins says he wants to "strengthen" the world's champions by acquiring a pitcher and an outfielder. He has his eye on George Uhle of the Indians, Ted Lyons and Alphonse Thomas of the White Sox, and Charlie Ruffing of the Red Sox, but he doesn't think he can get Uhle.

As trading material Huggins declared he would dispose of an outfielder, two infielders, two pitchers and a catcher. He said that Bob Meusel would not be traded and that neither Joe Dugan nor Urban Shocker had been mentioned in his trading conversations at Dallas, Tex.

The New York manager disclosed that Billy Evans of the Cleveland club had not said anything to him in Dallas about signing Arthur Fletcher, coach of the Yankees, to manage the Indians.

WALDO TEAM BUMPS CENTRAL HI CAGERS

Scoring 18 points for his team, Bender, Waldo forward, was largely responsible for the 33 to 18 defeat his team handed the Central Junior High School quintet at the Y. M. C. A. last night. It was Bender that proved the undoing of the Centralites as he scored as many points as the entire local team.

Barr scored seven points for Central to take second high scoring honors.

Paul Berlenbach Hangs Up Gloves As Delaney Wins

CHICAGO, Dec. 10—Jack Delaney, the retired light heavyweight champion, of the world, last night again salted Paul Berlenbach away, undoubtedly for the last time. The Bridgeport slugger won by a technical knockout in the sixth round.

It was Delaney's first appearance in Chicago, and he registered with a bang. Although the Delaney-Berlenbach act is a trifle shopworn, the bout went over big here, and justly so. The boys fought every second with everything they had.

Jack Too Tough

The shifty Delaney had too many guns for the once formidable Astoria Assassin. Jack tore into him at the first gong and weakened him with terrific rights to the jaw. But not until the third round did Paul go down under the assault. Then he arose slowly and walked in for more.

The forth and fifth rounds were duplicates of the other three. It was only a question of how much punishment Berlenbach could take. He landed several times with that once deadly left but it lacked steam and if Delaney was hurt by any of them he gave no evidence of the fact.

Starting the sixth Delaney unleashed his pile driving right, alternating with right crosses and vicious uppercuts. Berlenbach went down, but wouldn't take the count. He staggered to his feet and waded in. Delaney could be heard advising Referee Jimmy Gardner to stop the fight. Gardner hesitated while Delaney uncorked a few more withering rights. Paul's knees were sagging when the referee called a halt.

Berlenbach Through

It was the fourth meeting between Berlenbach and Delaney. The latter has stopped him twice and on another occasion won a decision in 15 rounds. Berlenbach holds one 15-round decision over Delaney.

After it was all over, Berlenbach packed away his gloves carefully saying he would keep them as a souvenir of his last fight. Paul said this was positively his last ring appearance.

New Eastern Conference Looms in Gridiron Circles

WEST POINT, Dec. 10 — A new eastern football alignment is indicated here by the announcement that the Army would meet Harvard in football in 1928. The Crimson is on the Cadets' schedule for the first time in eighteen years, completing a loose conference of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, West Point and Annapolis which promises to exert a great influence on titular claims along the eastern seaboard next fall.

According to the schedule released by the Army, the Cadets will face Harvard, Yale and Navy. Yale will face Harvard, Princeton and Army, and Harvard meeting Penn, Army and Yale. The Navy has engagements with Penn and the Army, while the Quakers will do battle with Harvard and the Navy. To stand at the head of this group will mean a great deal next year and will probably give the team on top a goodly claim on the eastern crown.

The Army schedule calls for the Soldiers to play nine games next fall, and it is one of the toughest schedules ever compiled for a Cadet eleven. In addition to Yale, Harvard and the Navy, Notre Dame is also met, and the powerful Southern Methodist eleven, which was the sensation of the southwest, has also been added, making five major engagements for the Cadets.

The location of the Navy game is still in doubt, but will be played on Nov. 24, the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving. Notre Dame is met in New York again. The Navy has the choice of the field next fall, which will be either the Baltimore Stadium or Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Logan Gas, Industrial League leaders, lost three straight games to the Displaymen last night in the Industrial league. Kopp got hot and broke 200 in all three games. His scores were 206, 203 and 206 for a total of 615. R. Rice broke 200 in two games but 178 was the best he could do in the first. The second and third games went at 206 and 209. Dugan's 225 in the first game was high score for the match. Total scores were 2779 and 2232.

The Star team won the first two games but dropped the last to the Huber bowlers. Thomas' 209 in the first game helped the Star topplers to win 864 to 784. Total scores were 2401 for the Star and 2351 for the Huber outfit.

TENNIS SPIT

Zone Problem May Result in Disagreement Between Tilden and Committee

New York, Dec. 10—A clash between the Davis cup committee and William T. Tilden 2nd was in prospect today when the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association was to take up the important question of Davis cup zone play.

Tilden believes that the United States should challenge for the cup next year in the European zone, so that American players may have sufficient time to become acclimatized abroad. He maintains they would then be at the top of their game against the French, should they reach the challenge round.

The Davis cup committee holds that inasmuch as many of the younger American stars are in college it would be impossible for them to go abroad early enough to compete in the elimination matches.

HONORARY CAPAIN

Agosta Coach to Appoint Game Leader for Each Contest This Year

Agosta, Dec. 10—A new plan is being tried in the local high school in regard to the captaincy of the basketball team this year. Instead of electing a captain at the beginning of the year to serve throughout the year Coach Dunton appoints a game captain for each contest. At the end of the year the members of the squad winning letters will vote for a honorary captain for the year.

The Agosta team this year is one o the best that it has ever had. In their first county league game they defeated Prospect 30 to 16, and on Dec. 17 will travel to Delaware to play the Delaware high quintet. This is the first time Agosta has met a "class A" team.

New York, Dec. 10—The brilliant performances of the industrial stocks and specialties near the close of Friday's market stimulated speculative buying and short covering today, and prices moved forward confidently in the first period. Leadership of the move centered with the steel, motor and specialty stocks, with United States Steel forging ahead impressively in active trading.

The 28 per cent increase in bank clearings as reported by Dun's agency was a welcome relief from the unfavorable accumulation of business and industrial reports of the week. The same agency reported a good increase in holiday retail trade in all sections of the country. Prominent business men commented favorably on general business prospects and Wall Street predicted an increase in the forward bookings of the United States Steel Corporation to be shown in the monthly official report at noon.

Motors Sell Higher

Nash, Packard, Hudson, Hupp and Chrysler led a spirited rise in the motor stocks. Kelly Springfield, Stewart Warner and other motor accessory stocks joined the movement, to the accompaniment of reports of heavy commitments by the automobile manufacturers for 1928 delivery. In the steel group American Steel foundries completed a 10 point advance since Friday's final period and United States Steel at 141 showed a 6 point recovery from yesterday's low price.

The Texas sulphur stocks, Greene Cananea, the newly discovered "mystery" stock, Colorado Fuel, Congoleum, and the mercantile stocks resumed their aggressive forward movement, and in some cases established the peak prices of the week.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining and Pan American which have been declining on uncertain dividend prospects, the oil stocks were steady, but inactive. Crude oil conversation will receive a powerful boost early next year through the combined efforts of the Petroleum Institute and the federal government, and the effect on crude and refined oil prices is expected to be favorable. Phillips Petroleum, California Petroleum and Texas Company sold higher.

Baltimore & Ohio is expected to follow Southern Railway into a higher dividend classification early next year. The stock sold in good volume above 119 today, recording a gain of one point. New Haven led the speculative rails in activities and buoyancy, selling in good volume above 57.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10—Pressure was light in the late trading yesterday, and wheat prices gradually firmed, revealing small gains at the close. Selling led by houses with northwest connections brought the lowest prices for the season near its opening. All of the foreign markets showed some easiness, but the local market maintained its independent strength.

After the early selling by houses with northwest connections, mainly in the distant futures, trade in wheat was rather dull. There was little character to the day's run of news, and lacking any real incentive, the trade was inclined to go slow about taking either side. December showed the most strength, deliveries being fairly light at 200,000 bu.

Liverpool opened a little better than due, but trade there was quiet and the close was irregular at ¼d lower to ¼d higher. Buenos Aires was easier, standing ½c lower at midday. Winnipeg opened firm and higher, but closing prices showed ¼c lower to ⅜c higher.

Canadian country deliveries were lighter than for the previous year, the first time since their heavy movement began this year.

Heavy local selling was the depressing factor in the corn pit, but toward the close better buying appeared and the market firmed. Export business was quiet, though the Southwest reported some bids a shade lower than the marketable basis. New York demand was quiet in the face of a 3c rise in premium during the past few days.

Local cash demand for corn continued good and shipping sales aggregated 113,000 bu. Only 28,000 bu. was booked to arrive and country offerings continued light. Deliveries on December contracts were 231,000 bu. The weather forecast predicts clear and favorable weather over the belt, with temperatures a little warmer than anticipated at the outset of the cold wave.

Early losses in oats were quickly overcome as the trading progressed and all of the futures closed at the session's top prices. Cash demand continued good and local sales amounted to 68,000 bu. Deliveries were 167,000 bu.

Rye was weak. Fairly heavy liquidation developed in the December, with deliveries rather high at 35,000 bu. and at the close this futures showed a loss of 1¼ cent. The distant months reacted comparatively little. Cash prices were easier with the futures.

Railroad stock, firm; industrial stocks, steady, domestic bonds, firm, foreign bonds, steady; coin, steady; copper, firm; oil, irregular; cotton, steady; rubber, firm; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady

New York, Dec. 10—The brilliant performances of the industrial stocks and specialties near the close of Friday's market stimulated speculative buying and short covering today and prices moved forward confidently in the late period. Leadership of this movement with the steel motor and specialty stocks with United States Steel forging ahead impressively in active trading.

The 28 per cent increase in bank clearings as reported by Dunn agency was a welcome relief from the unfavorable combination of business and industrial reports of the week. The same agency reported a good increase in holiday retail trade in all sections of the country. Prominent business men commented favorably on general business prospects and Wall Street predicted an increase in the forward bookings of the United States Steel Corporation to be shown in the monthly official report at noon

Motors Sell Higher

Nash Packard, Hudson, Hupp and Chrysler led a spirited rise in the motor stocks. Kelly Springfield, Stewart Warner and other motor accessory stocks joined the movement, to the accompaniment of reports of heavy commitments by the automobile manufacturers for 1928 deliveries. In the steel group American Steel founders completed a 10 point advance since Friday's final period and United States Steel at 141 showed a 6 point recovery from yesterday's low price.

The Texas sulphur stocks, Greene Cananea, the newly discovered Sayre-Beaver stock, Colorado Fuel, Congoleum, and the mercantile stocks resumed their aggressive forward movement, and in some cases established the peak prices of the week.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining and Pan American, which have been declining on uncertain dividend prospects, the oil stocks were steady, but nothing in the oil conversation will receive a powerful boost early next year through the combined efforts of the Petroleum Institute and the federal government, and the effect on crude and refined oil prices is expected to be favorable. Phillips Petroleum, California Petroleum and Texas Company sold higher.

Baltimore & Ohio is expected to follow Southern Railway into a higher dividend classification early next year. The stock sold in good volume above 119 today, recording a gain of one point. New Haven led the speculative rail to activities and dominance, selling in good volume above 57.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10—Premiums was light in the late trading yesterday, and wheat prices gradually firmed, revealing small gains at the close. Selling led by houses with northwest connections brought the lowest prices for the season near its opening. All of the foreign markets showed some easiness, but the local market maintained its independent strength.

After the early selling by houses with northwest connections, mainly in the distant futures, trade in wheat was rather dull. There was little character to the day's run of news, and lacking any real incentive, the trade was inclined to go slow about taking either side. December showed the most strength, deliveries being fairly light at 200,000 bu.

Liverpool opened a little better than due, but trade there was quiet and the close was irregular at ¼d lower to ¼d higher. Buenos Aires was easier, standing 1½c lower at midday. Winnipeg opened firm and higher, but closing prices showed 1½c lower to ⅝c higher.

Canadian country deliveries were lighter than for the previous year, the first time since their heavy movement began this year.

Heavy local selling was the depressing factor in the corn pit, but toward the close better buying appeared and the market firmed. Export business was quiet, though the Southwest reported some bids a shade lower than the marketable basis. New York demand was quiet in the face of a 3c rise in premium during the past few days.

Local cash demand for corn continued good and shipping sales aggregated 113,000 bu. Only 28,000 bu. was booked to arrive and country offerings continued light. Deliveries on December contracts were 251,000 bu. The weather forecast predicts clear and favorable weather over the belt, with temperatures a little warmer than anticipated at the outset of the cold wave.

Early losses in oats were quickly overcome as the trading progressed and all of the futures closed at the session's top prices. Cash demand continued good and local sales amounted to 68,000 bu. Deliveries were 107,000 bu.

Rye was weak. Fairly heavy liquidation developed in the December, with deliveries rather high at 35,000 bu. and at the close this futures showed a loss of 1½ cent. The distant months reacted comparatively little. Cash prices were easier with the futures.

CONSERVE OIL

Work Declares Flood Cannot Be Construed As Forecast of Plenty

Washington, Dec. 10—The unprecedented flood of oil during the past year can not be construed as a forecast of continued plenty or the existence of unlimited resources, Secretary of the Interior Work said today at a conference of oil producers drafted to formulate a legislative program for the conservation of America's petroleum resources.

"Rather and very properly it should be viewed as an unnecessary draft upon the underground reserve so largely in excess of current needs as to necessitate large capital outlays for additional storage facilities," Work said.

Designed by 10,000 Women for You!

We asked 10,000 women to help us design the finest washer that brains and experience could produce. They told us what they wanted in a washer—the style, the finish, the construction, the washing qualities.

The result is the perfected Haag Vortex—a marvel of efficiency and beauty. It washes clothes snow-white in 4 to 7 minutes without tearing or tangling—thanks to the patented Haag Vortex agitator.

The new double-tub construction, providing an air chamber between the stainless nickel-lined copper tub and the dent-proof galvanized outer jacket, keeps the water hotter and is a wonderful aid to washing.

Won't you let the nearest Haag dealer do your next washing free in your own home? Just phone or see him today.

It is certainly well worth trying. Come in today and give us the small amount necessary to become a member. Now is the time. Don't put it off.
